

HUSBANDS WONDERFUL SHOULD BE TOLD SO

LONDON (AP) — Viscountess Lewisham thinks husbands are wonderful people. "But you've got to keep telling them they're wonderful," she told a meeting of women members of Britain's ruling Conservative party Wednesday.

A member of the London County council, 32-year-old Lady Lewisham said: "Kiss your husband goodnight in the morning and when he returns each night."

"Never bore him with your troubles until he has told you about his."

"Wear your best clothes for your family."

"Keep your best rooms for the family and give them your best food. Visitors can have what the family does not need."

Lady Lewisham's husband is Viscount Lewisham, a London banker. Married 14 years, they have two sons. Lord Lewisham is heir to the eighth Earl of Dartmouth.

Lady Lewisham also appealed to Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Selwyn Lloyd, to give an Easter blessing to marriage by allowing more money for morality.

"At present," she said, "the government pays people to live in sin."

Explaining, she said married couples are given personal income tax allowances of £240, but an unmarried couple living together can claim a total of £280.

"The government," she said, "is thereby making a present of £40 for immorality."

Lady Lewisham's family motto: "Virtue rejoices in trial."

U.S. Seeking A-Test Race Russ Charge

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union accused the United States today of seeking resumption of a nuclear arms-testing race and said American negotiations in Geneva are avoiding a "serious approach" to this problem.

OAS TERROR THREATENS CEASE-FIRE

PARIS (Reuters) — Success seemed in sight at the Algerian peace talks today but there was rising apprehension over right-wing terrorism in Algeria.

French and Moslem negotiators went into their 10th straight day of talks at Evian near the Swiss border with expectations that a cease-fire might be signed Saturday.

Moved into Algeria about 300 Algerian Moslem "protectors" as the European Secret Army Organization stepped up its terrorist campaign to scuttle the peace agreement.

KHRUSHCHEV
... 'it's invulnerable'

Renders Radar Useless

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev claimed today that Russia has developed an invulnerable "global missile" following an announcement that a Soviet "cosmic ship" was orbiting the earth.

Khrushchev said United States radar systems would be useless against the "cosmic missile" since it could strike from any direction.

"So as people say, you can expect it through the door and it comes through the window," the Soviet leader said.

He claimed there was no defence against the missile which could "fly in any direction and land at any spot." The weapon made the U.S. militarily vulnerable as any country in the world, he said.

TITAN PASSES TEST

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The most powerful United States military rocket ever flown, the towering Titan 2, successfully passed its maiden test flight today, streaking to a South Atlantic target more than 5,000 miles away.

The success, announced by the U.S. Air Force, bolstered defence department hopes of fully developing the blockbuster weapon in about a year and gave tremendous boost to future U.S. manned and unmanned space exploration plans.

ON PEACE POWER COST

UBC Group Told Figuring Wrong

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Electric Company chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum has challenged the findings in a report of a University of B.C. professor — engineering group which criticized the Peace River hydro project.

In a two-page report prepared by BCE research director Dr. John Davis, Dr. Shrum suggested the university group should make a public correction of their findings.

Dr. Shrum said Dr. Davis found that the university group had used a different approach in calculating costs of various power sources in B.C. than had the B.C. Energy Board in cost-estimating the Peace.

COSTS DOWN

Using the professors' formula, Dr. Shrum said, would bring Peace power costs down from 4.37 to 3.5 mills.

DELAY PEACE

The university professors in their private study of power sources in B.C. recommended that the Peace project be delayed and that such projects as development of Hat Creek coal deposits for power and erection of a dam at Moran on the Fraser River be given consideration. They also felt the Columbia River international treaty should be renegotiated with the United States.

DR. HARRY WARREN, CHAIRMAN

Dr. Harry Warren, chairman of the university group, said he and his colleagues would be happy to make a public correction if Dr. Davis' criticisms are warranted. But members of the group added they did not think Dr. Davis' findings are valid and that they have no intention of retracting their own findings at this time.

THE PEACE PROJECT

The university professors in their private study of power sources in B.C. recommended that the Peace project be delayed and that such projects as development of Hat Creek coal deposits for power and erection of a dam at Moran on the Fraser River be given consideration. They also felt the Columbia River international treaty should be renegotiated with the United States.

MANILA (AP) — An armada of U.S. ships and planes, crisscrossing 75,000 square miles of the western Pacific, today reported no trace of a missing American airliner missing with 107 persons aboard.

THE FOUR-ENGINE SUPER-CONSTELLATION OF THE CALIFORNIA-BASED FLYING TIGER LINE DISAPPEARED BETWEEN GUAM AND THE PHILIPPINES ON A FLIGHT FROM CALIFORNIA TO SOUTH VIETNAM.

TRAVEL AIR FORCE BASE IN CALIFORNIA SAID THE PLANE CARRIED A CREW OF 11 AMERICANS, 93 U.S. ARMY PERSONNEL AND THREE SOUTH VIETNAMESE. FOUR WOMEN WERE AMONG THE CREW.

IT WAS THE THIRD MAJOR AIR MISHAP THIS MONTH. THE LOSS OF ALL ABOARD WOULD BE THE THIRD WORST DISASTER IN AVIATION HISTORY INVOLVING A SINGLE PLANE.

THE PLANE TOOK OFF FROM GUAM AT 8:57 P.M. THURSDAY NIGHT CARRYING FUEL FOR ABOUT NINE HOURS FLYING FOR THE 1,600-MILE, EIGHT-HOUR HOP TO CLARK AIR FORCE BASE, NORTH OF MANILA. IT WAS LAST HEARD FROM 80 MILES LATER WHEN THE PILOT SENT A ROUTINE RADIO MESSAGE TO GUAM FROM ABOUT 270 MILES WEST OF THAT U.S. BASE.

HAS HERO'S CITATION

Military sources in Saigon said the plane was due in South Viet Nam this morning. It was assumed in the South Vietnamese capital that the military personnel aboard the plane were to join U.S. forces bolstering the government's fight against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

A PLAQUE ON PILOT GREGORY THOMAS' HOME CITES HIM FOR "EXCEPTIONALLY MERITORIOUS CONDUCT AND PROFESSIONAL ACHIEVEMENTS IN PERFORMANCE OF HIS DUTY AS PILOT IN COMMAND OF A FLYING TIGER LINE DC-8 AIRCRAFT WHICH WAS FORCED TO DITCH IN NEW YORK'S JAMAICA BAY ON JUNE 21, 1957, WITHOUT LOSS OF LIFE OR SERIOUS INJURY."

TWO OF THE WORST DISASTERS IN AVIATION HISTORY OCCURRED EARLIER THIS MONTH.

ON MARCH 1, AN AMERICAN AIRLINES BOEING 707 JET CRASHED IN JAMAICA BAY, KILLING ALL 95 ABOARD. THREE DAYS LATER A CHARTERED BRITISH AIRLINER CRASHED NEAR DOUALA IN THE WEST AFRICAN REPUBLIC OF CAMEROON AND ALL 111 PERSONS ABOARD WERE KILLED.

Rail Strikes Set for April

MONTREAL (CP) — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Ind. today set strike dates against Canada's two major railways. It threatened to strike the CNR April 2 and the CPR 24 hours later, April 3.

O. J. TRAVERS, ASSISTANT CHIEF OF THE UNION IN CANADA, TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE THE UNION REGRETS HAVING TO MAKE THE ANNOUNCEMENT.

HE SAID IT WAS NECESSARY BECAUSE THE RAILWAYS APPEARED "DETERMINED TO SET THE CLOCK BACK" ON WORKING CONDITIONS FOR THE ENGINEERS.

NEWS OF THE PROPOSED STRIKE AGAINST THE CNR WAS MADE PUBLIC SEVERAL HOURS EARLIER WHEN THE PUBLICLY-OWNED RAILWAY ISSUED A STATEMENT CRITICIZING THE MOVE.

SURPRISE ACTION

Setting a strike date against the CPR, however, came as a complete surprise. Only a few hours earlier, a railway spokesman had said the two parties were close to signing a new agreement and all that remained to be done was rephrase a few of the clauses in the contract.

THERE ARE ABOUT 4,500 ENGINEERS ON THE TWO RAILWAYS.

A STATEMENT ISSUED BY CNR PRESIDENT DONALD GORDON AND J. J. MACMILLAN, EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT IN CHARGE OF OPERATIONS, CALLED THE DECISION "MOST REGRETTABLE."

IT SAID THE CNR MUST IMMEDIATELY CONSIDER WARNING SHIPERS "OF POSSIBLE EMBARGOES ON TRAFFIC."

HUGE VOLCANO REPORTED OFF ANTARCTICA

LONDON (AP) — The British admiralty reported today there has been a gigantic volcanic eruption beneath the surface of the Scotia Sea, just outside the Antarctic circle off the southeast tip of South America.

THE ROYAL NAVY ICE PATROL SHIP PROTECTOR SAID THOUSANDS OF SQUARE MILES OF THE SCOTIA SEA AND SOUTH ATLANTIC OCEAN WERE COVERED WITH FLOATING CHUNKS OF PURPLE AND DUST AND THE AREA SMELLED STRONGLY OF SULPHUR.

THE SHIP ADDED THAT LARGE CLOUDS OF STEAM WERE RISING FROM UNINHABITED ZAYDOVSKI ISLAND, WHICH APPEARED TO BE WITHIN 15 MILES OF THE ERUPTION'S CENTRE.

CONFERENCE PROSPECTS SUFFERED A BLOW THURSDAY NIGHT WHEN THE SOVIET UNION REJECTED U.S. TERMS FOR A TEST BAN. RESUMPTION OF U.S. NUCLEAR WEAPON TESTS IN THE ATMOSPHERE AS A RESULT.

'Most Wanted' Man Sought Since 1949

OTTAWA (CP) — William Adams, 40, of St. Catharines, sought since 1949 in connection with his father's murder, is Canada's most wanted criminal, the RCMP said today.

ADAMS, BORN IN TIMMINS, ONT., HAS BEEN ON THE RCMP'S LIST OF MOST WANTED CRIMINALS SINCE 1953. HE HAS WORKED AS A CRANE OPERATOR, MACHINIST AND SALESMAN.

A REVISED LIST CONTAINS THE NAMES OF SIX MEN.

THE OTHERS, IN THE ORDER THEY STAND ON THE LIST, ARE: John Frederick Meagher, 31, of Toronto, wanted by the Metropolitan Toronto police for escaping custody in 1956 while en route to court to face charges of armed robbery.

ROY EDWARD HOLOWATY, 36, AND DONALD EDWARD KOLIT, 30, BOTH WANTED FOR ESCAPING FROM THE SASKATCHEWAN PENITENTIARY AT PRINCE ALBERT NOV. 12, 1961. THE MEN, BOTH SERVING 10-YEAR TERMS FOR ROBBERY WITH VIOLENCE, MAY BE ARMED AND ARE CONSIDERED DANGEROUS.

ROGER McLEAN, 37, WANTED BY QUEBEC POLICE FOR ESCAPING CUSTODY DEC. 10, 1961, AND WOUNDING WITH INTENT. McLEAN WAS CONVICTED IN OTTAWA NOV. 22, 1960, ON CHARGES OF ARMED ROBBERY AND SENTENCED TO 15 YEARS IN PENITENTIARY. McLEAN IS CONSIDERED "EXTREMELY DANGEROUS."

HE ESCAPED IN MONTREAL WHERE HE WAS TO FACE SEVERAL CHARGES.

Father of Six Charged With Shooting Mountie

TERRACE, B.C. (CP) — A 41-year-old Terrace man was remanded to March 26 when he appeared in police court today, charged with attempted murder in the shooting of an RCMP constable who answered a bank holdup alarm Thursday.

No plea was taken and Charles Augusta Dilley, an unemployed father of six children, was remanded in custody.

CONSTABLE GARY FRAZER, 27, WHO SUFFERED ABDOMINAL, LEG AND ARM INJURIES IN THE SHOOTing at the bank, had his left leg amputated above the knee. Hospital officials said he is "holding his own."

CONST. FRAZER, FATHER OF A YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER, IS A NATIVE OF WINNIPEG, AND JOINED THE RCMP IN 1954.

RCMP Inspector F. L. Jeeves, who flew in from Prince Rupert, said it appeared from reports the constable was about to draw his gun when he entered the bank but was shot before he could do so.

TERRACE HOSPITAL OFFICIALS SAID

people from all over the community had volunteered to give blood to save the constable's life. "We had more than enough donors. It's a wonderful little town."

A NUMBER OF CITIZENS CAPTURED THE SUSPECT AFTER A CHASE COVERING SEVERAL BLOCKS, AND THE $3,800 TAKEN FROM THE BANK WAS RECOVERED.

Logging contractor Bud Hallock, 32, said he bowled the suspect over with a tackle as he ran down the street.

HE SAID HE WAS DRIVING NEAR THE BANK WHEN HE HEARD GUNFIRE. HE GOT OUT OF HIS TRUCK AND SAW THE BANK MANAGER POINTING AT A RUNNING MAN.

"I flagged down a passing car and we chased him. The car got in front of him and I got out. As he came toward me I yelled to him to stop but he didn't."

"I THREW A TACKLE AT HIM AND WE WENT DOWN. THE CAR DRIVER HELPED ME HOLD HIM UNTIL POLICE ARRIVED."

He said he was driving near the bank when he heard gunfire. He got out of his truck and saw the bank manager pointing at a running man.

MP Suspended By Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons voted 84 to 24 today to eject Alexis Caron (Liberal-Hull) for the remainder of the day. The Progressive Conservative majority overwhelmed 19 Liberals and five CCF-New Democratic Party members.

THE VOTE WAS ON A GOVERNMENT MOTION THAT MR. CARON BE SUSPENDED FOR ACCUSING DEPUTY SPEAKER PAUL MARTINEAU OF BEING PARTIAL TO CONSERVATIVES ON A RULING.

TASS NEWS AGENCY SAID IT WAS "AN ARTIFICIAL" EARTH SATELLITE LAUNCHED WITH A VIEW TO CONTINUING THE SOVIET PROGRAM OF OUTER SPACE RESEARCH.

MOSCOW RADIO SAID THE SATELLITE WAS UNMANNED AND WAS ORBITING THE EARTH EVERY 93 MINUTES AT HEIGHTS OF 135 TO 619 MILES.

THIS WOULD TAKE IT WELL INTO THE BELT OF RADIOACTIVE PARTICLES SURROUNDING THE EARTH THAT SOVIET SCIENTISTS HAVE SAID MUST BE INVESTIGATED BEFORE MAN CAN FLY TO THE MOON.

NEVER WILL AGREE

Khrushchev made his statement about the "global rocket" apparently to reinforce his views on the current disarmament negotiations at Geneva. Referring to Western proposals for an effective control system, he said "we will never agree to this."

A CONTROL SYSTEM, HE ARGUED, WOULD BE NOTHING BUT AN ESPIONAGE SERVICE FOR THE WEST.

NEAR THE END OF A TALK OF AN HOUR AND 37 MINUTES, KHRUSHCHEV SAID THE SOVIET UNION WILL RESUME TESTING OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS IF THE U.S. STARTS ATMOSPHERIC TESTS.

HE DEFOUNDED AMERICAN SUPPORT OF SOUTH VIET NAM. HE SAID THE UNITED STATES HAD SUPPORTED TROUBLE-MAKERS IN LAOS, BUT THEIR EFFORTS WERE DOOMED TO FAILURE.

THE MEETING WAS ORGANIZED TO SUPPORT KHRUSHCHEV'S CANDIDACY FOR A SEAT IN THE SUPREME SOVIET. AN INTRODUCTORY SPEAKER WAS TALKING ABOUT "SPACE SHIPS AND ROCKETS WHEN KHRUSHCHEV, SITTING BEHIND HIM, BLURTED OUT THE NEWS OF THE NEW MISSILE.

TAKING THE LEAD

Khrushchev told the election meeting that the Soviet Union was taking the lead in forming a society where man could not be exploited by his fellow man. "Communism has now ceased to be a dream," he said, and added that socialism was bringing benefits to many countries.

THE MEETING WAS BROADCAST OVER A NATIONWIDE RADIO AND TELEVISION HOOKUP. KHRUSHCHEV RECEIVED A THREE-MINUTE STANDING OVATION AS HE BEGAN WHAT HAD BEEN FORECAST AS HIS FIRST MAJOR FOREIGN POLICY SPEECH IN THREE MONTHS.

TEL AVIV — An army spokesman today reported a desert clash between an Israeli patrol and two Arab marauders who attempted to infiltrate into Israel from the Egyptian-held Gaza Strip. One infiltrator was shot dead and the second captured.

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Five Americans were killed when a plane they were in was shot down Thursday by Liao-tian "patriotic forces," the Communist New China news agency said today.

RENO (AP) — Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller obtained a divorce from the New York governor today in proceedings that took little more than 10 minutes.

Police Shot Down

A police drive on Yates Street netted a number of residents who were summoned to appear before the police magistrate on charges of throwing ashes in the streets.

Some of the shingles took fire on the roof of the Congregational Church when the joint of the stovepipe parted. There happened to be several parishioners in the church at the time, and they helped the minister, Mr. McFie, extinguish the blaze without calling the fire department.

A complimentary ball for Mrs. R. J. McDonnell will be held tomorrow evening in the Lyceum, tendered by a number of her friends.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—What would you think about if you were 108 years old?

Mrs. Margaret Lewis, born into slavery 108 years ago Thursday, says she thinks "about what a good time I've had. And the children. They're so good to me. I couldn't make it if they weren't so good to me."

Mrs. Lewis needs a little help getting around the house, but she still manages to sew and knit and uses a washing machine that was a birthday present last year.

She has outlived all five of her children and both of her grandchildren. She now has 15 living descendants—two great-grandchildren and 13 great-great-grandchildren.

Born in Barren County in southern Kentucky, Mrs. Lewis speaks fondly of her days in bondage and of "Marse Jack" and his family. "They never gave me a cross word," she said.

WAUKESHA, Wis.—It cost Mrs. Kurt Schroeder $200 to avoid an $18 fine on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the road.

The charge was dismissed Thursday when the attorney and a surveyor she hired at $100 each proved that snow-banks narrowed the road and forced Mrs. Schroeder to cross the centre line.

WINNIPEG—A repentant crank apologized to Tommy Douglas Thursday night after disrupting the sound system in the hall where the New Democratic Party leader was to speak.

Mr. Douglas said he got a telephone call in his hotel room a half-hour before an NDP nomination meeting was to start in the Playhouse Theatre.

A man said he had cut the sound system wires in an attempt to wreck the meeting because he hated socialism. "I realize it was not the right thing to do," the man said and suggested Mr. Douglas get it fixed.

Mr. Douglas telephoned the auditorium and the damage was repaired. Phinches police stationed themselves in the wings as a precaution during the meeting.

TORONTO—A black Labrador retriever named Pat was honored Thursday night for helping to save two fishermen from possible death.

Tom Murphy of Kingston, Ont., owner of the dog, and Father Devine lost an ear from their boat while fishing last summer and the wind started blowing them into Lake Ontario. The two men tied a rope around the dog and it swam to shore, towing the craft.

Pat was presented an award at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show by Frank K. Kortright, president of the show.

LONDON—A strutting bald eagle named Percy, hailed for 10 years as a pinup boy—even a father—in a suburban zoo, has given his keepers the bird. Percy laid an egg.

"He certainly fooled us," zoo official Harry Snaize said Thursday. "Ever since we bought him as a male bird in 1952, Percy has been one of our pinup boys. He's been very popular and we've always given him a special build-up in our official guides."

While the egg embarrassed the keepers, it appeared to mortify Percy.

After circling the egg several times, the eagle preened its 10-foot wing span and plopped a heavy claw on the egg. As eggs will, it broke.

With that, Percy gobbled up the remains.

CARTHAGE, Mo.—Allen Ross, 11, received a letter from President Kennedy the other day in which he expressed amusement over the fact that the boy had named his pig for the chief executive because it "was the best and cost more than any other."

After the Subway, a Stroll in the Woods

This is the sixth in a series of articles on Russia by Mrs. Graham Odgers, wife of Dr. Graham Odgers, senior scientific officer at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich. Dr. and Mrs. Odgers spent several months in Russia in 1961, their second trip in three years.

By MRS. PAMELA ODGERS

Although there were many inconveniences in Moscow, occasionally we would be pleasantly surprised by an arrangement that worked well.

Mrs. Odgers

One Sunday we took the subway to the end of the line and went for a walk away from the paved roads. Soon we were in birch woods where many other people were taking a Sunday stroll or sitting on the rustic benches. Although on the outskirts of the city a little village surrounded by forest remained intact.

The wooden huts were grouped round a pump, each had a bit of overgrown garden, vegetables, apple trees, and chickens or geese wandered about. A stack of sleighs, most of them needing repair, reminded one of winter.

Untidy Fields

The fields were large and generally untidy and seemed to have been liberally sprinkled with broken glass, bottles and tin cans—a varied assortment of garbage in fact. A very long mound of earth was the storage for root vegetables. On the tranquil, muddy pond a boy was steering his homemade raft, whistling in the warm summer air.

Avoiding the broken planks, we decided we would have to go back on the subway to get anything at all to eat, but luckily we saw a small kiosk occupied by a large and cheerful woman selling bread, cheese, cold meat, lemonade and cookies.

It was so unexpected and surprising. After the simple lunch we set out for the green domes of a large church which attracted our attention. As we neared the building the inevitable signs of decay became clearer and we saw that the great door had an iron padlock rusted onto the handle.

The tiles on the north side of the roof had fallen in and soon the exposed wooden rafters would rot and the graceful green domes would crash to the ground with only the wind and rain as witnesses.

Trade Fair

In May the British Trade Fair was held in Sokolniki Park in Moscow. One thousand five hundred tons of machinery were uncrated and set up and the results were impressive.

I had never seen a machine making a carpet, or socks, or sweaters. There were tractors, jet engines, cars, telephone cables, a model tire factory, lovely materials, wools, cottons, nylons, terylene.

The colored leather shoes attracted large crowds—of strict instructions from the Russians, prices were not allowed to be shown so they never knew that the shoes cost less than their own dull footwear.

To counteract the favorable impression made on the public by the fair, articles were published in the newspapers on how the charges for a prescription on the National Health Service in Britain had risen so high that they were beyond the reach of the workers and could only be paid by the wealthy.

Lies, Lies, Lies

Charges had indeed been raised, from 14 cents to 28, but this did not in any way put them out of reach.

Another in the interminable and wearying procession of lies printed in the Daily Worker was the photograph—genuine no doubt—of a man asleep on a park bench in London, the caption being that the workers are so exploited that many of them like the poor unfortunate in the photo had nowhere to sleep but a bench in the park.

That is journalism in Russia. Their facts are strictly speaking correct but the conclusions and distortions are lies.

People in the Soviet Union know that much of the information given out by their government is false, but they have very few other sources of news. They are very skeptical and think that governments in other countries tell lies in the same way.

At the trade fair a young Englishman became quite friendly with his Russian interpreter and after several weeks of seeing each other on the stand all day it became clear that the Russian had something on his mind that he wanted to ask. Finally, on the last day, he plucked up courage and fingered the material of the English lad's suit, he asked laughingly: "Of course, this suit is not really yours is it? I mean that you'll have to give it back when you get home?"

To the 'Plage'

In the hot weather in Moscow we squeezed ourselves into an already overpopulated bus and went to the outskirts of the city to swim in the Moskva River. An incredible number of peeping and rumpled Muscovites burst out of the bus, straightened their clothes, rubbed their feet where they had been trodden on, and followed the signs to the "plage" (beach).

A person could swim anywhere, but if one wanted to pay five kopeks a portion of the sandy bank was fenced off and in this area were simple cots on which one could comfortably sunbathe, little changing cubicles, and primitive rest rooms.

Ice cream, lemonade, buns and cakes were on sale. Young people look as healthy and athletic as any other people of their age—they usually play volleyball on the beach—and they wear bathing suits. But the older women, who are almost always fat, wear their underwear, long black bloomers and pink brassieres. After these garments have dried off a little they put on their dresses again, line up for the bus and go home.

BRITAIN LOSING DOCTORS

LONDON (Reuters)—Thousands of Britain's young doctors are reported to be streaming abroad to escape from the national health service under which they are state-employed. The report, by Dr. R. H. Davidson, who is also a barrister, and Dr. John Seale, consultant in medical economics and health services, appears in the current issue of the British Medical Journal, published today.

They say that in the last seven years the equivalent of the output of three medical schools has gone to North America alone.

The days and the weeks went by without my meeting any Russians except the maids in the hotel. It was very disillusioning. However, the second evening we spent with an astronomer and his wife was perhaps the most enjoyable of all. We met in a restaurant a seven and left at 12. In the course of those few hours they fed us so much food, filled our three wine glasses so many times, asked so many questions which revealed their great hunger for travel and contact with the outside world, and spoke quite freely on every subject that we felt like old friends by midnight. We left reluctantly when the restaurant closed. The pity of it was that there were not more evenings like it, but if we invited anyone to our hotel they simply did not come.

Gangsterism Feared By B.C. Unions

A fatal shooting and a threat of physical violence in the labor world are under investigation by RCMP, the legislature was told Thursday night.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner made the disclosures after Opposition MLAs warned of the threat of gangsterism to B.C. unions.

The shooting was that of U.S. seaman Clayton Stratton, and the investigation is centred around allegations that he had been hired by a trade union to beat up members of a picket line set up by another union in Vancouver.

The threat was against a "prominent" trade union official, Mr. Bonner said, who had turned a complaint over to RCMP for investigation.

It was learned outside the legislature that the official was Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor. Alex Macdonald (NDP-CCF Vancouver East) said that gangsterism is moving into organized labor.

'Hoodlums Have Taken Over Control'

He said the government "can't deny that in the U.S. criminal elements have fattened themselves on segments of organized labor," and "there are instances where hoodlums have taken over control."

"I'm fearful that could happen in B.C.," he said.

He mentioned the Stratton case.

The seaman was shot last week when he attempted to pistol whip a Vancouver man after forcing his way into the man's home.

Gustave Strathie wrenched the American's pistol from him and the seaman was wounded fatally when the gun was fired.

Stratton was on bail at the time on a charge of assaulting a picketer on duty outside Teamster Headquarters. Police said there appeared to be no connection between the incidents.

Mr. Macdonald said Stratton boasted he had come to Vancouver from Port Angeles to beat up a member of a rival union on a picket line.

He said it appeared to be a case of mistaken identity that led to his death in the struggle with Strathie.

"The trade union movement recognizes there is a threat here," the MLA said.

Not Tolerated by B.C. Unions

"I am glad to say it doesn't come from or is tolerated by member unions of the B.C. Federation of Labor or the Canadian Labor Congress."

In asking for an investigation, Mr. Macdonald said it should be learned who brought Stratton into B.C., who paid him, and what union, if any, was involved.

"If we don't stamp this out, intimidation will take place," he said, suggesting that if there was no official stand taken, the unions themselves would have to take their own action.

He said unions "won't tolerate goons or muscle men from abroad or anywhere else."

"If any union is guilty of such a thing, they are not entitled to bargaining rights at all, because it is not a legitimate union," he said.

Mr. Peterson said the Vancouver Labor Council wrote, "This kind of public thuggery can't stand the glare of publicity," in asking for a probe.

"Have you a letter from the SIU (Seafarers' International Union) asking for an investigation?" Mr. Macdonald called across the floor.

"No, I haven't. Only these two," the minister replied.

White Cells Perform Many Tasks

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—White blood cells appear to transform into other body tissues and may be a key to secrets of growth and healing, a scientist said Wednesday.

Using a special chamber implanted in humans, Dr. Nicholas L. Petrakis has been able to watch white cells at work.

Under the right body environment, they appear able to convert into scar tissue to heal wounds, form bone, become connective tissue—the fabric of the body—and convert into blood-forming cells.

Dr. Petrakis, of the University of California Medical Centre, said the cells seem to have a sort of embryo activity. This is a capacity to form varied kinds of cells just as the cells of an embryo are able to form such different tissues as heart, blood vessels and other organs.

Ominous Shadow of Peking Hangs Over Geneva Talks

GENEVA (CP)—As in all recent discussions on disarmament, the shadow of Communist China broods over the 17-nation Geneva conference, remote yet ominous.

China's mighty millions are not represented here. But delegates are aware that some day, if any yards are made in disarmament, the question of mainland China's participation must arise.

The present Western plan excludes China in the first stage of disarmament. Once the second stage is reached, there would be a world-wide meeting of all "military significant" nations, naturally including China. Getting China to come in will undoubtedly be difficult but the "price must be paid," in the view of some conference observers.

Exclusion of China from the first-stage talks is the only way of getting a disarmament conference off the ground, they believe.

China is not in the United Nations and probably would not join the discussions here even if asked. The United States wouldn't sit down with China if she did come, and the Russians are noticeably unenthusiastic about welcoming their recalcitrant ally.

"I think it is significant that there has never been any suggestion that Russia wants China in," External Affairs Minister Green told a reporter.

Because of her enormous population of some 700,000,000, China is a force to be reckoned with both in conventional armaments and in her efforts to become a nuclear power.

The Russians have no relish for China joining the nuclear club. Apart from military considerations, it would diminish the Soviet claim to pre-eminence in the Communist world.

There is a parallel between the position of China in relation to Russia and that of France vis-a-vis the Western powers. The link is that France and China, while aspiring to nuclear status, have a vested interest in the failure of disarmament.

The problem of Mao Tse-tung's China has not come to the fore in the Geneva discussions but it is undoubtedly in the back of the minds of delegates, particularly those from the eight non-aligned nations.

Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi was asked recently about China's attitude toward nuclear arms.

"When China has them, the question of war and peace will be solved," he replied.

In a way that cryptic remark is typical of pale, ambiguous, faintly hostile shadow China casts over the Geneva talks.

The Mythical Surplus

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT is encouraged, and rightly so, by the nation's first commodity trade surplus in nine years. During 1961, the latest figures show, Canada exported goods worth $5,882 millions against imports of $5,794 millions. Apparently our favorable trade balance was about $87 millions. Actually it was nothing of the sort.

For unfortunately these figures are far from complete. The government, in congratulating itself on a commodity trade surplus, discreetly fails to mention the so-called invisible items of trade—the dividends and interest payments that we must pay to foreigners, transportation costs, the expenditures of Canadian tourists abroad and other items. When the invisibles are taken into account, Canada ran a vast foreign exchange deficit in 1961, as in all recent years.

The final figures have not been added up yet but the deficit is estimated officially at just under a billion dollars. This is an improvement of about 20 per cent over the previous year's experience and is reason for much encouragement but it is still an excessive and, over a period of years, an intolerable figure.

In this age of astronomical statistics a billion dollars may not appear to be an alarming sum. Yet a deficit proportionately about a seventh of that amount greatly alarms the United States.

The American economy is roughly 14 times the size of the Canadian economy. If the United States had run a deficit like ours last year it would have been around $14 billions. It was, in fact, around $2 billions. Judged by the relative resources of the two countries, our deficit is approximately seven times as high as that of our neighbor's. Their government is extremely worried. Evidently ours is not.

In the last few days the nation has received reassuring news from Mr. Hees, the minister of trade and commerce, and Mr. Fulton, the minister of justice. Mr. Hees says that Canadian production grew by 4.7 per cent between the first and third quarter of 1961. Mr. Fulton says it will grow by 7½ per cent during the full year of 1962.

If Mr. Fulton's prediction proves sound, Canada is in for one of the most rapid periods of growth ever recorded. During the last five years of the Liberal government, probably the best times the nation had experienced, annual economic growth averaged 4.7 per cent. In the five years of the present government it has averaged 1.7 per cent. By all historic comparison, Mr. Fulton's promised growth rate of over 7 per cent would be tremendous.

Let us hope he is right. But if it is right, a new problem—or rather a new opportunity—is presented to his colleague, Mr. Fleming.

Two years ago Mr. Fleming said Canadian business was recovering fast and he was bound, therefore, to balance the national budget. This he promised to do, adding that everything had turned out according to his thrifty plans.

The balanced budget of 1960, however, turned into another huge deficit. In 1961 Mr. Fleming deliberately budgeted for a deficit almost twice as large because, he said, business needed stimulation.

Now that business is good again, according to the government, and bound to become something like a boom before this year's end, Mr. Fleming is compelled to reconsider his position.

By his own reasoning of 1960, he is bound to balance the budget. If a balance was urgently required then, as he said, it is required still more urgently now. By Mr. Fleming's reasoning there is no possible excuse for another deficit budget this year, a year of high prosperity, according to the government.

If he were to admit now that he could not put his business in order after five years of uninterrupted deficit, debt and monetary inflation, Mr. Fleming would be admitting that he never could. It is to be hoped that he is not preparing to make any such surrender of his principles, as declared two years ago.

With Increased Fury

THE UNDECLARED WAR IN Algeria continues with increased fury and brutality. While the country, and the world, await the final decision of the French and Moslem officials who are arranging a permanent peace, the Secret Army Organization seems determined to strike fear into the Algerian population, both European and Moslem.

The strategy is obvious. Fearing a peace settlement which will grant independence to Algeria and reduce the European colonies to a minority amongst a large Moslem majority, the Secret Army Organization will try to put such terror into the population that no one will dare to support the new state and its government. This, they hope, will ensure its collapse and a chance for the Organization to seize power.

But terror will breed terror. The Moslems have been under the orders of their leaders to refrain from violence while the negotiations are proceeding. Their patience seems to have been remarkable under extreme provocation, although there have been outrages on both sides.

But with the settlement completed, the Moslems will be fighting for their legal and hoped-for rights as a nation. There will be no need for them to refrain from force, and the Algerian war will quite possibly flare into a savage civil war in which no quarter will be given.

It is a shabby prospect for a sincere attempt by General de Gaulle to bring justice and peace to the country so long under duress. It is to be hoped that a better sense of proportion will be felt among the leaders of the Secret Army Organization. The tide of history is against them. Need that tide any longer be tinged with blood?

Looking Into the Canal Business

IN THE GENERAL FLOW OF news from Southeast Asia, where most reports deal with events in a war that is far from cold and with projects to assist under-developed countries, comes a challenging proposal for a big canal.

The water cut, which might reduce the shipping journey from Europe to Asia by 930 miles, is suggested over a 30-mile route in Thailand to link the Indian Ocean with the South China Sea. Costs are estimated at between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000.

In an earlier time, this would stimulate engineering imagination throughout the world. How it will be received today could be another matter. Great time-saving and money-saving canals have generated their own political difficulties. Suez is an unhappy entry in post-war history. Panama is a recurrent problem to the United States.

The Thailand cut is probably a feasible engineering project. But canals run not only through real estate these days. They pass through morasses of international politics. It is one thing to dig a ditch which will carry ships. It is another to guarantee the avoidance of collisions in what is called state-manship among the peoples through whose property the ditch is dug.

Errors in Court

IN CITY POLICE COURT AN accused person has raised the defence that he should not be brought back for trial when he has already been released because a previous charge was improperly drawn. The technicalities of this case are best understood by experienced legal authorities.

But public interest is aroused by the fact that the processes of justice seem to be in jeopardy because of faulty drawing of a charge. Inevitably there will be instances in which such technicalities lead to the dismissal of charges before the cases are actually tried.

Errors of this nature can be anticipated as long as there are human factors in court proceedings. The question arises, however, over the frequency with which such errors can be excused. Has the time arrived when the city council should examine the question with the city prosecutor?

YOU ARE NOW ABOARD

Would You Like to Try for Another Block?

THERE seems to be some controversy about the problem of making sure that passengers in ambulances are prepared to pay their fare. I suppose it's natural enough for an ambulance driver to be curious as to whether he and the company are going to derive any revenue out of the trip. Ambulances cost money and run on gas. But it must seem a little unimportant to some patients, fighting off waves of nausea and unconsciousness, whether the money gets paid on the spot or a few hours later.

One alderman apparently believes that a 79-year-old lady with a broken leg should be alert enough to fill out a cheque form and briskly sign it while she lies on her stretcher. It isn't much to ask. After all, she really has nothing else to do at the moment, unless she is busily knitting socks for her grandson or has brought along a few potatoes to peel for her husband's supper.

But perhaps it might be easier for all concerned if the news were broken gently—I mean, if the driver did not throw the full amount at the patient right away, but eased up to it by degrees. It might be handled this way:

Joe Doakes, an elderly bachelor, has fallen down the cellar stairs and broken both legs, both arms, four ribs and two vertebrae. He has also suffered a slight concussion, blacked both eyes and received abrasions and contusions over most of his body.

(Shortly after his arrival, the hospital will announce that his condition is satisfactory, without specifying to whom.)

Neighbors have called the ambulance. Joe has been lifted onto a stretcher and is lying in the front hall of his home.

Driver: "Now, Mr. Doakes, I'm sure everything is going to be all right. Don't you worry about a thing. Are you comfortable?"

Joe: "Unnhrrgh."

Driver: "That's just fine. Now, I guess you'd like to be carried out to the ambulance, eh? How's that right arm? Is it really broken?"

Joe: "Just the bone."

Driver: "Excellent. Now, you just see if you can wiggle your hand around into your pocket and get out 25 cents. Just a quarter will do. Can you make it?"

Joe: "I think ... groan ... I ... ugh ... can just ... groan ... do it."

Driver: "Fine Mr. Doakes. Now that will get you right out to the curb." Joe is carried out.

Driver: "There we are. Now, Mr. Doakes, here is the ambulance. Would you like to be placed in it? If so, just try and get another 25 cents out of your pocket ... That's the boy. Thank you." Joe is lifted in.

Driver: "So far so good, eh, Mr. Doakes? Now, I think you have your wallet in your other pocket. If you could just get a dollar out of it, we will speed you safely and comfortably one block in the direction of the hospital. Then I'll be back to talk with you further."

Joe: "But ..."

Driver: "Not at all, Mr. Doakes. Everything's going fine."

At the next corner the ambulance stops and ...

Well, you get the idea. The system would be a little slower, of course, but who's in a rush to get to a hospital anyway? In fact, it seems such a good idea it might be applied in other fields.

Poll clerk: "Paid your taxes yet, Mr. Doakes? No? But you want to vote, eh? Fine. Now if you will just give me $10 you can step over here to this table. That's fine. Still want to vote? Good. Just pay me $20 now, and you will be permitted to step into this line of prospective voters here. When you get to that wicket, pay the man $40 and you'll be able to proceed to the polling booth, where the cashier will accept $25 and allow you to ..."

Or even this:

Dentist: "Thank you, Mr. Doakes. Just a moment while I put that $2 in the till. Good. I now have your tooth one-fourth of the way out. If you would care to go on, you may pay a further $2 and we can proceed ... Thank you. Now ..."

Well, it's a suggestion anyway. I just hope I never break my cheque-writing hand, that's all. And I think I'll wear my wallet pinned on my lapel, like this, just in case.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Pigeon-Lofts In Oak Bay

In the Times of March 11, there was a notice of an amendment to a bylaw to come before Oak Bay Council at 7.30 p.m. March 19 in the Municipal Hall. This amendment will allow any homeowner the privilege of building a pigeon-loft on his lot 90 feet square. The setting of the building shall be not less than 20 feet from the side lines and not less than 15 feet from the rear lot line.

Any gardener will see how handy these pigeons will be for a good meal off his garden peas, etc.; for a bath in his bird bath, or fishpond before flying up to sun themselves on his roof and fouling the eavestroughs.

If you decide you do not want this nuisance it will be necessary for a good turnout at this meeting for the second reading of the amendment.

It will be a bad blow to Oak Bay homeowners if it goes through. Moreover, in a few years we could be left with quite a few derelict pigeon lofts, which will not improve the appearance of Oak Bay properties and could be a breeding ground for rats.

As this amendment will affect the whole of Oak Bay, it is up to everyone to do his utmost to prevent it.

Room to Spare

Would you kindly print a reply to Mr. L. J. Pepper's March 9 letter, "By Space Craft, Perhaps?"

Our Lord Jesus Christ was approached concerning the resurrection by the materialists of His day. His answer to their ignorance on this subject is recorded in Matthew XXII, 29: "Ye do err, not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God."

1. Judgment—The Bible speaks of not one but at least four distinct tribunals. (Christians, Israel, Nations, and the Great White Throne Judgment.)

2. Space—The Great White Throne Judgment, to which Mr. Pepper alludes, takes place in the heavens. The presently known boundary of the heavens is 5,000 million light years in distance from the earth. Surely this will accommodate the 80 billion with room to spare.

3. Travel—We have Bible precedent for modes of travel unduplicated by man; e.g. Translation—Enoch; Chariot of Fire—Elijah; Carried by the Spirit—Philip.

4. Time—According to Revelation X, 6, before judgment takes place, time will have ceased to be. God will then measure all things in the light of eternity.

May I recommend a fresh look at the Bible. He that hath an ear let him hear.

Arms Race

On March 2, the day President Kennedy declared that in the absence of a test-ban treaty the United States would resume nuclear weapons testing, Rep. Carl Vinson, chairman of the United States House of Representatives armed services committee, said in a speech to the Reserve Officers Association that the United States today has the capacity "to destroy every nation in the world."

Assuming that the United States does indeed have such power, what can be the real point of further testing? On the face of it there is little advantage in being able to destroy a nation more than once. It might appeal to our pride as technologists to be able to destroy every nation in the world in two hours instead of taking a whole day to do it; but since the United States would be destroyed too, what would we do with the time we had saved?

It is true, as The Times says in its lead editorial March 6, that "the President's decision was forced on him by the insane policies of Russia." But by what arithmetical sleight-of-hand does insanity plus insanity equal sanity?

As a practical matter it appears that Canada must acquiesce in a good deal of what the United States does. But endorsement of any action which will accelerate this "race of madness" is no service to humanity.

I have been trying in vain to recall any arms race that has ended peacefully.

Prince George Sympathizer

Most citizens of Victoria will feel like expressing their apologies to the City of Prince George for the caricature of that city published in the Victoria Times, purporting to be a sketch of the business and residential areas of Prince George by Herbert Siebner.

That the city and its boosters are filled with wrath is readily understandable.

Siebner's sketch bears as much resemblance to Prince George as a litter-filled vacant lot in Victoria bears to Beacon Hill Park.

Of course this so-called modern art does not claim to be a true reproduction. It is supposed to give the artist's impression.

But people who don't know Prince George, studying this sketch by Siebner, will get the impression that Prince George is a collection of mud hovels, which is a sad perversion of the truth. As a citizen of Victoria, herewith my humble apologies to Prince George.

WASHINGTON:

Tit-for-Tat Tariffs

By MAX FREEDMAN

IN his testimony on Tuesday before the House ways and means committee, Mr. George Ball, undersecretary of state, served the plainest warning on Canada and other nations that they cannot expect to profit from the negotiations of the United States with the common market, under the most favored nation clause, without making substantial tariff concessions of their own.

Mr. Ball said the program of President Kennedy "reaffirms the principles of non-discrimination and most favored nation treatment. Accordingly, the benefits of our negotiations with the European community would be available to other free nations. To the extent that such nations receive substantial incidental benefits, we should expect to receive concessions from them."

Under questioning by the committee, Mr. Ball said the "discrepancy" between the British and the American tariff would disappear if Britain joined the common market and accepted the common rates prevailing there. But he emphasized that the United States would seek "reciprocity" in all future negotiations. It was not in the business of giving tariff concessions for nothing.

Acting on this hint, Republican members proposed that the bill be amended to give the president the power to seek equality in tariff rates with other governments "item by item, category by category, and country by country." Mr. Ball said "this amendment would be useful" and he accepted it as part of the administration's program.

Mr. Ball's basic point was that delay in acting on the trade program would encourage the protectionist forces inside the common market. By contrast, approval of the president's program at this session of Congress would give new strength and purpose to all the forces in the common market seeking to trade with the rest of the world on the most generous terms.

Chain Reaction

He declared that failure to act by Congress would have "catastrophic" results, for it would lead to a "chain reaction of protectionism" throughout the world that would end in a state of "economic warfare between friends."

Mr. Ball also put the Kennedy administration on record as believing that no effective action to promote world trade could be taken under Article Two of the NATO treaty, often called "Canada's article."

He said that the NATO treaty was essentially a defence treaty, and the history of the treaty since 1949 had shown that all action under Article Two was "oriented" to defence and security consideration. In practice, Article Two had been used not to lower tariffs in the Atlantic community but to co-ordinate policies of economic reprisal against the Communist bloc.

He thought that future trade negotiations should be conducted within the Geneva trade system, with OECD, the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, being the appropriate forum for these discussions.

Never, at any stage of the hearings, did Mr. Ball say or imply that there was the slightest unwillingness on the part of the common market to enter into an economic partnership with the United States.

On the contrary, he emphasized many times that it would be a profound disappointment to the common market if this partnership failed to become an established reality before many months had passed. He said that "the growing strength and cohesion of the European Economic Community are laying the foundation for a much more effective Atlantic partnership."

Urgent Concern

Mr. Ball, in discussing agricultural policy, made several points that are of urgent concern to western Canada.

He pointed out that commercial agricultural exports to the nations that would comprise an expanded European Common Market are presently running at the rate of about $1,600 billion annually—almost half of the total commercial exports of the United States in farm products.

In January, after protracted negotiations among the members, the common market agreed on the principles of a common agricultural policy. In a year or two, in accordance with the new policy, the members of the common market will begin moving toward a common internal price system in their agricultural commodities.

By 1970, the common market will have achieved free trade in such products among the member nations. As they move towards a common internal price system, they will also begin to protect that price structure against lower cost farm imports by a system of variable levies. The levy for each commodity will be fixed at the amount necessary to bring the price of the imported product up to the common internal price.

Thus far these internal prices have not been established. Mr. Ball said it is a matter of the "greatest interest to United States agriculture" (as it also is, of course to Canadian agriculture) that they not be established at unduly high levels. He said the president's program was "designed expressly" to provide bargaining powers that would enable the United States to maintain the position of its farm products in the "enormously important market of western Europe."

ENFANT TERRIBLE

My favorite story of "H. G." is the one he told me himself of how, when he was a small boy at school, he had to stand in front of the class and sing. He hated having to do it, and he got his own back by singing, "Bertie Wells has got the wind, got the wind, got the wind," whereupon he was hastily ordered back to his seat and never asked to sing again.

RED CHINA TO FIRE
A-BOMB?

BELGRADE (AP)—A foreign diplomatic source in Albania predicted Red China will explode its first atomic bomb on a Tibetan desert in June.

The report came from Tirana, Albania's capital, where many Red Chinese officials have congregated since Albanian boss Enver Hoxha's break with Moscow.

The Chinese A-bomb was described as relatively small, about the size of the French bomb exploded in the Sahara.

In spite of its modest size, its detonation is aimed at achieving a tremendous psychological impact on Asia and the rest of the world.

After Hit-Run

William Pilkington, 2841 Nanaimo, was fined $75 in city police court today for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

The 34-year-old man was driving a car Thursday evening outside 905 Lonsdale Street. He was apprehended 20 minutes after the incident.

Pilkington's licence was at first suspended by the magistrate but then the decision was delayed until March 23 when Pilkington said he was a truck driver and asked to use his licence for his work only.

Home safety and nursing will be discussed at a meeting of the Happy Valley PTA Monday at 8 p.m. in the school.

B.C. to Increase
Minimum Wages

A general increase in minimum wage rates throughout B.C. industry is forecast with the announcement in the legislature Thursday of industrial relations board hearings starting next month.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, answering questions by Rae Eddie (NDP-CCF—New Westminster) in debate on the minister's salary, told the legislature:

"I agree that minimum wage orders should be revised at the earliest possible time . . . in

They appeared certain to maintain this opposition to international inspection where all other disarmament measures were concerned.

The Western powers were just as adamant in their refusal to disarm without international inspection of the Russians. Without a break in the East-West deadlock over inspection measures, top Western diplomats saw no hope for progress—but they intended to keep on trying, for weeks or months, if necessary.

Russia's answer to Kennedy's test ban proposal was given Thursday night by Soviet Ambassador Semyon Tzarapkin. The U.S. president announced two weeks ago he had ordered a new atmospheric test series to begin in late April but would cancel it if Russia would agree to ban all tests under an international inspection system.

Brazil's Dantas today criticized the major powers for making proposals he said they knew would not work and which they put forward only for political capital.

He said the conditions for an effective disarmament policy could be created when the "non-armed powers, thirsting for lasting and final peace," determine to denounce and tug down such cold war proposals.

The Brazilian added, however, that after studying the U.S. and Soviet proposals made Thursday, "I find that their position has not apparently changed substantially," but it seems to sense nuances in the presentation of certain aspects of the problem, especially with regard to the suspension of nuclear tests which leads me to believe that prompt and effective progress in this field can be achieved.

He called on the United States to refrain from testing in the atmosphere in April. He also attacked the Soviet Union for its tests last fall, saying that Moscow had "thereby assumed the responsibility of reopening competition where an encouraging truce had set in since 1958."

order to eliminate minimum rates that might be detrimental to the health and welfare of the workers of this province." He said hearings on minimum wage order revisions were scheduled for five classifications including manufacturing, fishing, fresh fruit and vegetable handling, merchantile, and hotel and catering industry.

Actual dates for hearings have been set for the first two listed—April 8 and 10, respectively.

PROBLEM IN PROTOCOL
AS FAIR DATES CLASH

City Hall officials are caught on the horns of two Victoria Days to celebrate in May. The city's traditional Victoria Day weekend celebration reaches its climax May 21 this year—the same day that has been designated as Victoria Day at the Century 21 World's Fair in Seattle.

"That will clash with our celebrations," moaned Ald. Arthur Dowell when the Century 21 announcement was made Thursday. "We want to have our people here for Victoria Day."

However, loath to reject the Century 21 courtsey openly, he said he hoped some interested group would point out the protocol problem to Century 21 officials to see if they could shift the honor to some other date.

This would be preferable to making the request through official channels, he said.

'GET SHOT UP
EVERY DAY'

SAIGON (AP)—An authoritative United States source said today "U.S. helicopters and planes here got shot up nearly every day, and I think a lot of these incidents are never reported to Washington."

The source took issue with a Washington report that not one U.S. helicopter has been shot down and only three hit by Communist bullets.

The source here said one U.S. helicopter was "unquestionably" brought down by ground fire on a mission last month.

Rebels Slain

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese forces were reported today to have killed 45 Viet Cong rebels and captured 67 within 24 hours after launching an offensive 100 miles west of Saigon, near the Cambodian frontier.

Informed sources said several companies of Vietnamese troops supported by U.S. Army helicopters attacked a band of about 100 Communists after American-built fighter bombers struck from the air.

Guerrillas ambushed a company of South Viet Nam civil guards Wednesday in Phuoc Thanh Province. The government said 24 were killed, 19 wounded and 29 missing.

PTA MEETING
H. R. Dawson, principal of Colquitz Junior High School, will speak to the PTA Tuesday at 8 p.m. on the new grade eight program and course selections at grade nine level.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is finding it harder to portray its military men in South-Viet Nam as purely sideline coaches in the war against Communist guerrillas.

A reporter raised the point at a press conference Thursday when he told Defence Secretary McNamara "there is some confusion as to the precise U.S. military role in South Viet Nam."

McNamara sought to make it "very clear" that the United States is in South Viet Nam to supply training and equipment—not to fight.

"The Americans are under instructions not to fire unless fired upon," he said.

McNamara acknowledged some sporadic fire has been aimed at U.S. personnel "and in a few minor instances they have had to return that fire in self-protection."

USE BOMBING PLANES

Reports from Saigon have said aircraft flown by American and Vietnamese pilots have bombed and strafed Communist concentrations.

Asked about this, McNamara said that among other things Americans are tutoring the South Vietnamese pilots in the operation of aircraft more complex than the planes they are now using.

"To obtain the full range of such training, it occasionally takes place under combat conditions," he said.

This, as one reporter noted, raised the implication that some of the combat missions are being carried out by Americans. "Is that what you want us to think?" the reporter asked.

"They participate in combat type training activities which can be considered combat missions," McNamara said, "but those are very, very few."

'TOO MUCH CONDONING OF SPEED BY MLAs'

Road Safety Probe Rejected

Premier Bennett Thursday defended B.C.'s speed limits and said alcohol is the main cause of highway accidents.

He made the statements as the government turned down a resolution in the legislature from Liberal leader Ray Perrault for a special committee to study highway safety.

Mr. Perrault contended there is "controversy" over speed limits. There should be a thorough study of speed, seat belts and engineering standards, he said.

Speaker Hugh Shantz told him the resolution was in order but "inoperable" if passed because it did not say who should appoint the committee.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said it was not acceptable anyway.

There was already a sort of interdepartmental committee functioning on highway safety, composed of RCMP, highways and attorney-general's department officials.

Alex Macdonald (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) complained there was too much condoning of speed in speeches by MLAs. Even Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi didn't include speed as one of his "10 commandments" on safety issued earlier in the session.

Mr. Bennett said drivers who stay in the right lane and behave are all perfectly safe on high-speed thoroughfares.

One thing that makes for accidents—and that's liquor, and the cause of most accidents in this country."

Randolph Harding (NDP-CCF—Kaslo-Slocan) proposed an amendment to the resolution naming the committee.

"Any such committee would be redundant," protested Mr. Gagliardi.

The present standards were "very fine."

"No highway is posted above its safe speed limit," he said.

Both the amendment and the resolutions were defeated by the Social Credit majority on a straight voice vote.

Another Liberal resolution was also defeated, after one member charged a ruling by Speaker Hugh Shantz that it was out of order.

Proposed by Harry McKay (L—Fernie), the resolution asked the government to give annual grants to a private college at Nelson.

Mr. McKay said the federal government gives $34,000 to Notre Dame College, B.C. should also contribute.

However, the sticky problem of provincial aid to private institutions was skillfully avoided when Speaker Shantz ruled the whole resolution out of order because it involved spending money—which can only be proposed from the government side of the House.

Mr. McKay challenged his ruling on the grounds that last year an opposition resolution was approved asking the government to consider taking over B.C. Electric—which certainly cost a lot of money.

of 27 to 18, with the NDP-CCF voting with the Liberal group.

7,000 VICTORIANS DONATE BLOOD EVERY YEAR

You Can Be a Lifesaver in Just 30 Minutes

By IAIN HUNTER

It is within the power of every Victorian to help save the life of a fellow citizen. It costs only 30 minutes and 350 cubic centimetres of blood.

An average of 7,000 Greater Victoria citizens donate blood to the Red Cross every year. A good deal of this blood finds its way back to Victoria hospitals. None of it is wasted.

On one of three days every month donors can watch their blood flow down a plastic tube into a pint bottle which already contains 120 C.C. of an anti-coagulate solution.

The bottle filled, they can watch the detached tube being half-filled into the "pilot" test tube which also contains an anti-coagulate solution and which is strapped to the bottle. The other half of the residue blood goes into a separate "dry" test tube.

But the rest of the process which eventually takes their blood to its final destination the donors cannot see.

In fact, as soon as the tube is disconnected from the donor's arm, he loses all identity with the blood he has given. Nameless, the bottle with its two accompanying test tubes is flown to Vancouver to be tested and stored.

The dry tube in which the blood has clotted is tested in Vancouver to see that it is healthy, and is "typed". A simple test at the clinic in Victoria already has categorized the blood generally. In Vancouver the precise group—O, A, B and AB—and the presence or non-presence of the Rh factor are determined.

IMPORTANT

The blood group is of major importance in transfusions. Particularly vital is the Rh sub-type. Incompatibility between the Rh factor of a mother and her baby can lead to destruction of the child's red cells and its death. The donated blood having been tested and typed, the bottle with its pilot test tube is stored in Vancouver until it is requested by a hospital for routine or emergency work. Hospital attendants use the pilot tube for a final cross check on the blood with that of the prospective recipient before it is used in transfusion.

FAST SYSTEM

In an emergency, or if the Vancouver bank should run dry, Victoria hospitals can get blood in as long as it takes to make a phone call to one of the many regular donors in the city, and as long as it takes to take their blood—seven minutes.

Mrs. V. A. Thistle, secretary of the blood transfusion service at Red Cross House, says she can call any number of donors and get immediate response.

"Victorians can always be counted on in an emergency," she said.

Mrs. Thistle is the only permanent member of the blood transfusion service in Victoria. But three days a month she is reinforced by a travelling blood team of 14 girls who hold clinics in the area. There is another such team based in Vancouver permanently.

PAYS NOTHING

Mrs. Thistle pointed out that each bottle of blood after it has gone through all the necessary intermediate processes between donor and recipient costs the Red Cross $6. The patient pays nothing. "Canadians are very fortunate to get this service free."

It is partly to meet the cost of providing this service to Victorians free that the Red Cross is conducting its present fund drive. It can do this if its objective in Greater Victoria of $79,000—the same as last year's objective which was surpassed—is met. It cannot otherwise.

Committee recommended that council approve payment of $9,829 as its per capita share of the Capital Region Planning

U.K. Liberals Rally Forces

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's Liberal Party is dancing on air after a sweeping byelection victory in the Conservative stronghold of Orpington.

Liberal candidate Eric Lubbock obliterated the Tories' lead of 14,860 in the last election and headed for Westminster with a sensational majority of 7,855 votes.

Expert opinion had given the election to fiery Conservative candidate Peter Goldman but predicted the minority Liberal Party would give him a good fight.

Then on the dawn of the ballot The Daily Mail's opinion poll said the Liberals would win. This, together with Liberal gains in the Blackpool byelection Tuesday, threw all party machines into overdrive.

TENSION MOUNTED

Later tension mounted in Orpington, a commuters' suburb 40 miles south of London, when it was learned the Liberals had sliced into the Tory vote in Wednesday's Middlesbrough East byelection, a seat safely retained by the Labor Party.

The three byelection results—two near misses and one solid bull's-eye—will certainly rally flagging Liberal hopes that they can achieve an effective number of seats in the next election.

But similar if not so spectacular Liberal gains in the "little election" of 1958 were shattered in the 1959 general election when the maverick Tory voters returned to their fold.

The Liberals however, who now hold seven seats in the 630-seat Parliament, will find it difficult to restrain their hopes that the mighty party of Gladstone and Lloyd George will once again be heard and feared throughout the land.

And, with at least five more byelections pending, Britons have found an admirable long-shot to back in the lull before the flat-racing season opens.

Tempers Flare in Commons As Election Jitters Felt

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Stormy scenes marked the Commons sitting Thursday as members of parliament, sniffing the scent of a June election in the balmy spring Ottawa air, snapped and snarled at their political opponents.

There were shouts of "Sit down," "Shut up," and "It's none of your business," from Conservative members levelled at Opposition members as they sought to ask questions. There were charges from the Liberals that certain statements made by Defence Minister Douglas Harkness were "untrue."

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker at one point lectured the Opposition. He declared that the "kind of exhibition" that was going on in the House indicated that the Opposition was deliberately wasting time.

This brought vigorous protests from the Liberals with Paul Martin (Liberal—Essex East) jumping to his feet to shout above the hubbub that the prime minister had no right to make such charges.

Mr. Speaker Roland Michener reprimanded the prime minister for his comment. He noted that Mr. Diefenbaker after answering a question had suggested that the Opposition members had improper motives in exercising their right to ask questions.

"I do agree that that is not a proper suggestion to be made. Honorable members must be credited with discharging their duties properly," said Mr. Speaker. His reprimand brought vigorous

PORTABLE PENSIONS GUARANTEED

Portable pensions for all government and municipal employees are assured in legislation introduced by Minister Wesley Black Thursday.

Amendments to the Municipal Superannuation Act provide pension plans for all B.C. hospital employees, magistrates and volunteer firemen.

Another provision allows a bonus for municipal employees who retired before 1957.

The government administers their pension plan. The bonus would be shared 50-50 by the government and municipalities.

There are about 1,700 such retired employees and widows in B.C. and they would receive an extra $1 a month per year of service up to a maximum of $25 under the new plan.

DRAWING CROWDS

Pearson Scores In Maritimes

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—National Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson wound up a three-day swing through New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island in election campaign style Thursday night, reaping audience approval as he raked the Progressive Conservative government.

A jazz band set the mood at the packed public meeting and Mr. Pearson walked to the platform between two pipers. His final speech drew the best response of any during his tour. Political meetings in Prince Edward Island, now represented in the Commons by four Conservatives, are traditionally boisterous.

Mr. Pearson said the federal government spent millions of dollars buying weapons for Canadian forces, then delayed senselessly for three years on a decision whether to arm the weapons with nuclear warheads.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker had, in effect, decided that "if an emergency arises we'll send a telegram to Washington saying 'well, the time has come. Praise John and pass the ammunition.'"

REPEATS WEAPONS STAND

Mr. Pearson reiterated that the Liberals oppose possession on nuclear weapons by Canada or the extension of the nuclear club.

He described as "damagatory" the government's delight in personal attacks on its critics.

Mr. Pearson also accused Mr. Diefenbaker of making false and loose statements about the causeway to link Prince Edward Island to the mainland.

He said a Liberal government would quickly conclude a series of causeway studies. If it was feasible, the Liberals would build the causeway.

RCMP Helps In Hunt For Fugitives

RCMP are co-operating with the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation in trying to locate three fugitives who now are possibly in Canada.

They are: Bobby Randall Wilcoxson, 32; Albert Frederick Nussbaum, 27; and Jacqueline Rose, 19. The two men are reported to be well armed and extremely dangerous. All three are known to use several aliases.

Wilcoxson is described as of medium build with dark brown hair, brown eyes, has a burn scar on his left wrist and a scar on his right forearm. He has been added to the list of the FBI's Ten Most Wanted Fugitives.

TATTOO MARK

Nussbaum is described of medium to heavy build with blue eyes and light brown hair and has a tattoo mark on his upper left arm of a snake entwined around a dagger.

Rose has a reddish brown hair with a fair complexion, is said to be 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs about 105 pounds. She may be accompanied by a five or six-month-old baby boy, Kenneth Rose.

The two men are being sought in connection with multiple bank robberies, in one of which a bank guard was slain.

They are thought to be armed with a double-barrelled, sawn-off shot gun; sub-machine guns; hand grenades and anti-tank guns.

The girl is known to have driven the getaway car following an armed robbery in Buffalo, N.Y., in December, 1960.

CHARWOMAN TO CHAIRMAN SAY THANKS

LONDON (Reuters).—About 150 directors and employees of the Courtaulds man-made fibre company went to church Thursday night to give thanks for deliverance from a takeover bid by the giant Imperial Chemical Industries.

The employees, from chairman to charwomen, filed from the company's head office to a nearby church for a service of gratitude that the company had retained its independence. They sang the hymn Now Thank We All Our God.

Imperial Chemical Industries announced earlier this week that it was dropping a £213,000,000 offer to Courtaulds shareholders. The offer was vigorously opposed by Courtaulds' directors and most of the shareholders turned it down.

A target date of April 1 has been set for the start of operations.

OTTAWA (CP).—The federal railways of Brazil will buy 56 diesel electric locomotives worth $5,000,000 from General Motors Diesel Limited at London, Ont., Trade Minister Hees has announced.

The deal was made through long-term export financing under the export credits insurance corporation, said the announcement. The $5,000,000 is part of an order worth $8,500,000 being filled jointly by General Motors Corporation in the United States and its Canadian subsidiary.

IN JANUARY

Import Trade Sets Record

OTTAWA (CP).—Canada's import trade, showing no signs of slackening in January, reached a record for the month of $493,000,000, up 14.3 per cent from $431,200,000 a year earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The month's total was 9.2

per cent higher than the previous January peak of $451,600,000 in 1957.

The sharp upswing in import buying began in mid-1961. Total imports last year were 5.5 per cent higher than the previous year, but the last quarter of 1961 showed a year-to-year gain of 15.5 per cent.

MORE EXPENSIVE

Part of the increased value reflects the decline in the exchange value of the Canadian dollar, which has made imports more expensive in Canadian dollar terms.

Another factor affecting the January gain was the import of $12,600,000 in military aircraft from the United States, which are financed under mutual defence arrangements.

Biggest import gain was in purchases from the United States which rose in January to $353,700,000, up 18.6 per cent from $298,300,000 a year earlier.

Peace Power for Under Four Mills

Peace River power will cost less than four mills per kilowatt hour in Vancouver, Premier Bennett told the legislature Thursday.

He was debating a resolution presented by Liberal leader Ray Perrault calling for filling of all contracts let by B.C. Electric on the Peace.

Mr. Bennett said the government would be happy to oblige, especially as the first big contract, award of which he announced earlier to the House, was much below the original engineers' estimate.

The cost of Peace power to Vancouver customers as estimated by the B.C. Energy Board was just over four mills, the premier said.

"We now expect it to be less than four mills," he said.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said this was good news, but he hoped the cost of power estimates would be equally low on the Columbia River—"because the same engineers provided the estimated costs of both projects."

Mr. Bennett announced earlier that a $16,906,423 contract has been awarded for the first major construction of the Peace River power project.

The job was awarded to a group of four Canadian companies who submitted the lowest tender for the project.

They are Drake Construction Co. of Winnipeg, Henry J. Kaiser (Canada) Ltd. of Montreal, Gilpin Construction Co. of Vancouver and Mannix Ltd. of Calgary.

Mr. Bennett said the contract provides for use of all-

B.C. materials wherever possible in the construction of three diversion tunnels at the Portage Mountain damsite on the Peace River.

Target completion date for the tunnels is August, 1963.

Mr. Bennett also announced award of another contract for the big power project—$147,247 worth of headquarters in the field.

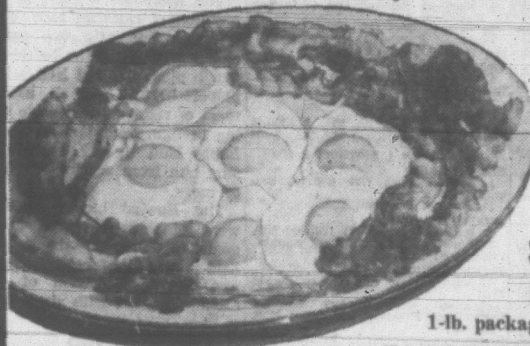

Dike construction of Dawson Creek will build offices, dormitories for 50 men and dining facilities.

'Never Anything Like It'

By LEE MEADE

PRAGUE (AP)—"I asked coach Galbraith if there was any way for me to win and he said: 'There's room at the top, so I went out and skated.' To hear him tell it, Donald Jackson, 20, of Oshawa, Ont., was taking his victory in the 1962 world figure skating championship quite lightly.

But it was more a case of being swept up in the frenzied enthusiasm of the capacity crowd of 18,500 which witnessed the Canadian's electrifying triumph Thursday night.

"There has never been anything like it," one veteran skating official declared. "I've seen all the great ones—Sonja Henie, Dick Button, Hayes and David Jenkins. . . . None could compare with Jackson tonight."

Skating to the strains of Bizet's Carmen, the slightly-built Jackson executed the first triple Lutz jump in the history of competitive skating.

His faultless performance also included a triple Salchow and three double Axels. Jackson has been working to perfect the triple Lutz for more than a year.

"I've done the jump successfully five times in practice but never in competition, he smiled. "I guess tonight was a good time for the sixth."

"I had a feeling I would do it when I arrived in Prague last week," he continued. "The texture of the ice felt good for jumping and the Czech people really get behind you."

He dodged questions concerning his amateur skating future, but it is widely known several professional ice shows are interested.

"I'd like to stay on until the next Olympics in 1964," Jackson admitted, "but it's difficult to say anything about the future. I've been concentrating on winning the world title and haven't had time to think of anything else."

Seven Perfect Scores

PRAGUE (AP)—The 1962 world figure skating championship entered their final stages today with Canada proudly wearing two crowns and hoping to collect a third title.

The Canadians wrote a new page in the book of figure skating history. Aces Mari and Otto Jelinek of Bronte, Ont., won the pair title Wednesday in a performance that could only be surpassed by Donald Jackson's unprecedented triumph in the men's singles Thursday.

DUTCH GIRL LEADS

Holland's Sjoukje Dijkstra today extended her lead over Canadian Wendy Griner in the ladies' compulsory school figures, but Miss Griner was still rated a strong threat for the crown.

Unofficial tabulations with two figures to be skated this afternoon gave the 20-year-old Dutch girl 78.2 points to 75.7 for Miss Griner, a 16-year-old native of Hamilton, Ont., who now lives in Toronto.

Regine Heitzer of Austria was third with 74.65.

SHOULD BE CLOSE

The blonde Canadian schoolgirl is generally conceded to be a better free skater and the fight between her and her Dutch opponent was expected to be a close one.

Jackson, 20, of Oshawa, Ont., emerged as the world's best free skater in the men's singles final with a series of triple jumps never performed before in international competition. He became the first Canadian to win a men's singles world title.

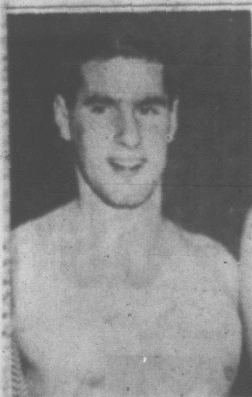

Jackson, acclaimed by a crowd of 18,500, excelled in a triple Salchow, triple Lutz, double Axel and in a dazzling array of fancy footwork.

"This brought him an unprecedented seven perfect scores in one performance."

Jackson rallied to overtake Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia who led earlier in the competition. Divin, Olympic silver medal winner in 1960, was unable, however, to match Jackson's daring and imaginative performance in the free-style skating.

The Canadian skater scored 2,277.1 points compared with Divin's 2,255.

Alain Calmat of France was third while Donald McPherson of Stratford, Ont., was fourth.

FREESTYLE ACE of Victoria YMCA club, Bruce Warburton, is slated for action at Crystal Garden Saturday in second half of annual city swimming championships. First of 22 events gets under way at 5.

Toronto Maple Leafs, who didn't even play, nailed down second place in the National Hockey League Thursday night and Chicago Black Hawks, who lost, are sure of third.

But the night's action, in which the Hawks bowed 6-5 to Montreal's league-leading Canadiens and the inoffensive Boston Bruins suddenly turned ferocious and blanketed Detroit Red Wings 4-0 in their own rink, left one or two questions unanswered.

The Wings were left with the problem of catching New York Rangers, currently two points ahead of them in the battle for fourth place and the NHL's last playoff berth. And an assortment of right wingers were trying to figure out how to check Bobby Hull closely enough to stop him from scoring 50 goals or more.

"The Hawks' blonde bomber went into Montreal needing six goals to reach 50—the record held jointly by Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion of the Canadiens—and with six games to play."

HULL SCORES TWO

Under close escort practically all evening, he still managed to score twice, something he had never done before at the Forum, and left himself five games in which to get four goals he needs to tie the record.

Boston's victory meant that Boston would be the losingest team in NHL history. It snapped their 20-game winless streak and left that record safe with the New York Rangers of 1946-47 and the Black Hawks of 1950-51.

Chicago's loss left the Hawks with 71 points and five games to play. They can no longer overtake the second-place Leafs, who have 83. But coach Rudy Pilous said in an interview before the game started that all the Hawks wanted now was to give Hull the scoring record.

NEAR ANOTHER MARK

"If he gets a goal in his next game — at Toronto Saturday — Hull will also equal the Geoffrion-Richard record of having scored in nine straight games."

Reg Fleming of the Hawks got two goals and Murray Balfour one.

Dickie Moore scored two goals at Montreal, including the winner in the third period. Jean Beliveau added another two and Geoffrion and Claude Provost the rest.

In Detroit, goalie Bruce Gamble came up with a 31-save effort for his first NHL shutout. Johnny Bucyk and Murray Oliver, one-time Detroit players, got the first and last goals of the game respectively.

Oliver also contributed towards goals by Wayne Connelly and Doug Mohns.

The loss, Detroit's second in two nights, abruptly shifted the odds in their battle with the Rangers. Instead of being on level terms with a game in hand, the Wings now are two points down and both have four games left to play.

'Challenge' Bout Tops Mat Card

Headlining Saturday night's professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena will be what is billed as a challenge match between veteran Hard-Boiled Haggerty and powerful Mr. Kleen.

Other matches scheduled on five-bout program are: Roy McLarty vs. Tony Nero, Bulldog Plechas vs. Hurricane Smith, Hajji Baba vs. Alex Perez and Chief Crazy-Horse vs. Cyclone Smith.

Action starts at 8.30.

Begg fashioned a 190 average, Wong 186. Firing simultaneously with them will be: Stan Magwood, 19, and Stan Hyrn, 29, of Vancouver;

Scotty Thompson, New Westminster; Biff Ingram, Campbell River; Leo Fritzer, Prince George, and Terry Pederson, Nanaimo-Port Alberni.

The octet will roll five games at Aurora Saturday at 1 p.m.; five at Gibson's Sunday at 11 a.m., and the final five at Aurora at 3 p.m.

Vic High One of Three Unbeaten in B.C. Meet

VANCOUVER — Victoria High was one of three teams that started today's third round of the 13th annual B.C. high school girls' basketball tournament with perfect records.

Vic High, Delbrook of North Vancouver, and Queen Elizabeth of North Surrey each won two games in Thursday's opening rounds and qualified for the championship flight of the 12-team, round-robin tournament.

The three remaining berths in the championship flight were to be decided today. Finals are scheduled for Saturday.

Mount Douglas, the other Victoria-area team competing, lost its first-round game, a 25-22 struggle with Nelson, but came back to down Abbotsford 27-22.

There was some consolation for the Mount Douglas squad as their sniping ace, Sylvia Campbell, emerged as Thursday's top individual scorer with a sparkling 22-point effort in the victory over Abbotsford.

Vic High appeared a strong threat for the title with solid performances in the first two rounds. The Victoria squad started with a 25-15 decision over Kimberley and followed up by turning back the Vernon entry by a 34-21 count.

Today the Vics were due to clash with Delbrook, which edged Vernon 22-21 and then defeated Kimberley 33-26.

Queen Elizabeth downed Prince George 24-20 and John Oliver of Vancouver 19-18.

Biggest upset of the day was Abbotsford's 36-33 victory over defending champion Salmon Arm. In the second round, Salmon Arm bounced back to trounce Nelson 37-21.

Meeting Orders Water Petition

SIDNEY—A petition asking for formation of a water district to include the Deep Cove-Patricia Bay area will be circulated in about 10 days, it was announced today by Jack W. Gibbs, president, Deep Cove Property Owners' Association.

Decision to launch the petition was made at a meeting Thursday night in the Canadian Legion Hall on Mills Road, with close to 300 persons in attendance.

"The decision was unanimous," Mr. Gibbs said. "If the scheme materializes, then water will be purchased from Central Saanich municipality, which owns the Elk Lake system."

Reeve R. Gordon Lee of Central Saanich, who attended the meeting, gave assurance that the system can meet all local requirements.

Mr. Gibbs said the area to be served is mainly residential, and that the plan is to have a domestic rather than agricultural scheme. He said signatures of 70 per cent of property owners must be secured before application can be made for formation of a water district.

"Even then no one is committed," he said, "but we will have a recognized entity which can take action." Chairman was Brig. F. N. Cabellu.

DUNCAN — Current transportation dispute between Hillcrest Lumber Co. Ltd. at Mesachie Lake, and 70 loggers remains unresolved in spite of a meeting Thursday between company officials and the International Woodworkers of America, representing the employees.

Last fall the company announced that after the end of the year it would discontinue its free bus service between here and Mesachie Lake, west of Lake Cowichan.

The loggers who used to ride the bus have since turned out every day to meet the bus, and claim they are not on strike. The company has stated it has no intention of restoring the service.

QUALICUM BEACH — Construction of a 16-unit, $100,000 motel is expected to get under way next week on property at the corner of the Island Highway and Memorial Avenue.

Qualicum Construction Co. Ltd. is building the single-level, boomerang-shaped motel for Mr. and Mrs. William Carter, former residents of North Bay, Ont.

The suites will have individual patios, and there will be a coffee shop. Land clearing and removal of buildings on the site already has begun.

LADYSMITH — Log hauling along the Comox Logging and Railway Company line from Nanaimo Lakes was halted temporarily Wednesday when the company's diesel locomotive jumped its track near the Ladysmith log dump.

No one was injured, and the 120-ton locomotive was eased back on the rails by machinery and work crews later in the day. A company official said the derailment was caused by the heavy engine spreading the track on a curve.

COURTENAY — An auditors' report accepted by the school board this week shows a budget surplus for 1961 of $23,000.

School board secretary C. N. Peterson said that higher than anticipated revenues and overestimated teacher salaries accounted for the major portion of the surplus. The budget allowed a total expenditure of $1,360,000.

The major expenses were listed as teacher salaries at three quarters of a million dollars and repair and maintenance costs of $73,000.

The 1962 budget has been set at $1,500,000.

Timber Man Opposes More Public Access

A logging company said Thursday it does not want to allow further public access to the west coast of Vancouver Island Gold River area.

T. R. Sheldon, president of Elk River Timber Co., told the legislature's special committee on public access that its private road to Gold River from Butte Lake cannot handle normal automobile traffic.

At present only limited coach service is allowed on the road, and the company does not want anything more.

It is the only possible route to Gold River in the area, and full-time public access would be "impossible" in view of heavy logging traffic, said Mr. Sheldon.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood asked Mr. Sheldon if the company would agree to opening the road evenings and weekends to the general public.

"It would open up a tremendous recreation area," he said.

But Mr. Sheldon said under present conditions the company anything more than the bus service.

Dan Campbell (S.C.—Comox) asked if the company would agree to public access if the crown paid maintenance and took responsibility for controlling traffic.

Mr. Sheldon said he would co-operate if possible, but he was not enthusiastic.

Way Cleared On Pay Hike For Mayors

Legislation allowing a $2,500 increase in salary for top-paid mayors and Reeves in B.C. was introduced by the government Thursday.

Amendments to the Municipal Act, presented by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black, increases the pay for mayors, Reeves or community chairmen.

The present act puts salaries between $300 a year for areas of up to 500 population and $7,500 a year for cities over 50,000 population.

The amendments allow an increase of up to one-third of the present salaries.

The amendments also cover a number of other minor but contentious fields.

One grants the right to vote in municipal elections to wives of veterans. At present only the owner—almost always a man—of property obtained under the Veterans' Land Act is allowed to vote.

Another section allows the government to merge certain urban areas under one administration.

Specifically aimed at integration of services in the scattered municipality of Surrey, the amendments could also apply to other urban areas which might be amalgamated without a vote from the ratepayers.

'YOU'VE GOT ENOUGH SEATS ALREADY

Socreds Can Win But So What?—Gibson

North Vancouver Liberal Gordon Gibson conceded the next provincial election to the Socreds Thursday — but he asked if it were really necessary to do it now.

"I believe you'd go back in," he told Premier Bennett, who had just finished a five-minute election-type speech at the end of a late-night sitting of the legislature.

"But it wouldn't lengthen your lifetime in government," said Mr. Gibson.

"It would just cost the country a little more money. You've got enough seats over there already. You don't have to call an election," he said.

(It was 11:30, and time the House adjourned and everyone went to bed, he said.

The House obliged 15 minutes later, approving Labor Minister Leslie Peterson's salary vote and all his departmental estimates by 11:45.

But not before the premier's little election speech, and another one from Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

Mr. Strachan added the final Opposition protest that the government did not have a full-time labor minister.

"Having a part-time minister of labor is a calculated insult on the part of this government to the workers of B.C.," he said.

He went on to say the only way to provide a voice for all segments of the public was election of a New Democratic Party government.

Mr. Bennett protested it was "a straight political speech." He went on to make one of his own.

He accused the Opposition of fanning "hatred between economic groups."

He defended Mr. Peterson's dual role as labor and education minister.

"He's no half-time minister of labor at all—he works more hours a day than the average person works."

takes the time to build the best

Philips conquers
high voltage burnout with Monitron TV to bring you Canada's first

2-year picture tube guarantee!

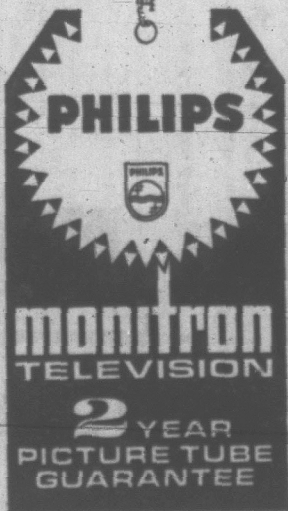

A FLASH OF LIGHTNING POINTED THE WAY TO THE TELEVISION INDUSTRY'S FIRST 2-YEAR PICTURE TUBE GUARANTEE. Last night, hundreds of Canadians watched with dismay as their favourite TV program faded to a bright dot in the centre of a dark screen. They were victims of one of the major problems facing the television industry—premature picture tube burnout. They will pay between $40—$90 to replace their tube. Today, Philips research has overcome this problem. In every Philips TV is a tiny unit called Monitron. It means added years of dependable TV viewing for owners of Philips television receivers. So remarkable is Philips new Monitron TV that it carries Canada's first 2-year picture tube guarantee by a major television manufacturer.

LIGHTNING LEADS TO VOLTAGE CONTROL. The story of Monitron had its beginning in an important cause of picture tube burnout—excess voltage. Household current often fluctuates erratically to literally burn the life out of picture tubes and other expensive parts! The problem was to control this excess voltage. In their search for a solution, the Philips experts turned to the conquest of nature's own voltage. Lightning bolts, powerful packages filled with hundreds of thousands of volts, could be made harmless with giant Thyrite Arrestors. Why wouldn't the same principle work in a TV set?

MONITRON TV IS DEVELOPED AND BURNOUT VOLTAGE LICKED! Working with new materials engineers at Philips developed an incredibly sensitive "brain" that constantly monitored voltage output. They called it Monitron. Here was a tiny device that could almost think, a regulator that could sense voltage changes and act immediately to keep voltage output reaching the picture tube exactly right.

WHAT DOES PHILIPS MONITRON TV MEAN TO YOU? In addition to longer tube life, Monitron TV by Philips means greater viewing pleasure. By keeping voltage output constant, Monitron eliminates "Picture Squeeze"—the shrinking picture that results when voltage drops. It gives a steadier picture and greater dependability.

PHILIPS QUALITY—A STORY THAT'S WORTH REPEATING. It is often said that "Philips takes the time to build the best." This is a fact. It leads to such industry firsts as Monitron TV. It leads to a new standard of television dependability. Let your Philips dealer give you a demonstration. See new Philips television with the industry's first 2-year picture tube guarantee—now at your Philips' dealer.

IF YOU OWN A 1961 OR 1962 PHILIPS BRANDED TELEVISION RECEIVER which you purchased on or after March 16th, 1961 we would like you, too, to have the benefit of Philips two year picture tube guarantee. Send Philips your name, address, serial number of TV set, approximate date of purchase and the dealer's name and address. We will mail you a Philips picture tube guarantee which is effective for two years from the date you purchased your set.

Let's Talk With Labor Says MLA

Immediate revival of the legislative committee on labor was demanded in the House Thursday night.

Opposition members Rae Eddie (NDP-CCF—New Westminster), John Squire (NDP-CCF—Alberni) and Alex Macdonald (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) each referred to the committee, which has not convened so far this session and has not had controversial material before it for a number of sessions.

Mr. Macdonald, last of the three to speak in debate on Labor Minister Peterson's salary, asked why he hadn't answered Mr. Eddie when asked why the committee had not been called.

"WHIPPING BOY"

"The reason is that the government of B.C. has to make labor its whipping-boy," Mr. Macdonald said.

"That's not fair," Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi protested.

"I'd like to hear them (the government) fight one election without this refrain about the labor bosses," the member said.

"There are all kinds of problems in the field of industrial relations, and if they want labor to be responsible, why don't they let them sit around the committee table?" he asked.

He gave as examples of problems in labor relations subcontracts and the "emasculatation" of labor rights of B.C. Electric employees and ferry workers, rights "hard-won over many years."

CLEAR THE AIR

Mr. Squire said he did not ask that the committee be set up "on any one-way street, but it could clear the air and it might eliminate some of the restrictive legislation this government has seen fit to pass."

Such legislation, he said, was the "cause of so much labor unrest in the province today."

"You've put a club in the hands of management," he charged.

"You said that last year," a government voice cried.

"And I'll keep saying it, again and again," Mr. Squire replied.

"There should be less legislation and let them (labor and management) find their own level. Then neither one group nor the other would want to hide behind their own particular legislation."

'Do-Nothing' Peterson Under Fire

The B.C. labor department was criticized Thursday in the legislature for lack of initiative and action.

"There is never any action taken unless a worker raises a complaint," said Rae Eddie (NDP-CCF—New Westminster) the Opposition's labor spokesman.

"When you get into a situation like this you find hesitancy on the part of the worker to lay a complaint. He fears discrimination."

Mr. Eddie said he wasn't blaming the departmental employees, who were always very co-operative.

MINISTER BLAMED

He was blaming Labor Minister Leslie Peterson for not "activating" the department.

"Unless he does this immediately he is entitled to all the criticism which can be heaped upon him," said Mr. Eddie.

He said he really should be a full-time labor minister.

CUT UNEMPLOYMENT

He called for these measures to alleviate unemployment:

A special departmental study of "what represents a fair day's work";

A boost in the minimum legal wage to $1.25 an hour; A shorter work week than the "antiquated" 44-hour week in force for 16 years;

Action by the legislature's standing committee on labor, which had not been called into a single meeting so far this session;

Closer policing of unemployment practices;

Greater penalties under the Labor Act;

Investigation and control of overtime practices.

TEARFUL LADY MEMBER SOOTHED BY PREMIER

Premier Bennett apologized to Mrs. Camille Mather Thursday.

He went and sat beside her in the Opposition ranks of the legislature shortly after it began its afternoon sitting.

Mrs. Mather was forced into tears late Wednesday night during a fierce barrage of Social Credit heckling as she spoke for improvements at Jericho Hill School for the deaf.

Later two other Opposition MLAs chided the government for the tone of the Wednesday night debate.

"There is no reason to make remarks during debate just to develop abusive argument," said Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP-CCF—Grand Forks).

"This is a new day—we're getting along very well," said Education Minister Leslie Peterson, who was embroiled in the debate with Mrs. Mather Wednesday.

Randolph Harding (NDP-CCF—Kaslo-Slocan) also deplored the interference of other MLAs in the debate.

"She begged no quarter as a woman—I'm sure she would never do this," he said.

Seaman Freed For Second Time

A legal battle lasting two-and-a-half hours in city police court Thursday ended in a Vancouver man being freed from the same charge for the second time in a week.

The verbal fight was between lawyer Ian Stewart, representing unemployed seaman Ivan Keyes, and Crown prosecutor Angus Smith.

Keyes was first arrested on Feb. 19 and charged with illegal possession of explosives—a bottle of nitroglycerin and a quantity of blasting caps.

WRONG WORDING

On Friday last week he was freed by Magistrate William Ostler after a trial because of incorrect wording in the information laid by the Crown.

The seaman was rearrested a few hours later on an amended charge and lawyer Stewart entered the unusual plea of "autrefois acquit."

The plea, as Mr. Stewart pointed out in court, is to prevent a defendant "being placed in jeopardy twice on what is substantially the same charge."

Little boats to brave spring breezes in Cadboro Bay this weekend.

City Frostbiters Hankering for Revenge

Upwards of 60 sailboats, striped sails of Davidson dinghies, service dinghies and Sabots will be in action from noon Saturday to close to dusk Sunday.

The gaily colored, multi-hulled boats will be racing between Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, West Vancouver Yacht Club, and the host club, Royal Victoria.

Thirty-six Davidsons will compete in a series of five races over the Cadboro Bay inner course, starting at 12 noon. Two weeks ago, in a similar series raced at Vancouver, the mainland club gave Victoria a handy trouncing, and the locals are thirsting for revenge.

On Sunday individual races are scheduled from 10:30 a.m. with as many as 50 Davidsons likely to start in a single race.

CHALLENGE

Sabot sailors of the Victoria club have accepted a challenge from an eight-boat team from Maple Bay Yacht club, and will race Saturday and Sunday.

At Esquimalt harbor, members of the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association will take on a team from HMCS Discovery, the Vancouver naval establishment, in service dinghies.

Navy and civilian sailors will get together at a dinner in the RVYC clubhouse Saturday evening, and again at prize-giving ceremonies at the club Sunday.

Cities Get One Year To Ponder Bus Offer

Metro 'Joker' Planned By Bennett?

Stage was set Thursday for transfer of B.C. Electric buses to civic operation within a year.

A high level meeting between Premier W. A. C. Bennett and civic leaders of the Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver areas was held in the premier's office Thursday. Statements by municipal leaders after the meeting indicated that the premier told them he would not force the buses on the municipalities. He said press reports that he demanded rather than merely requested civic co-operation were erroneous.

NOMINAL $1

However, it became apparent that a tentative deadline has been set of one year for the municipalities to make up their minds on the deal they have been offered by the premier.

This is: The buses would be sold for a nominal $1, but this would not include the terminals, shops or real property held by the transit company.

Legislation would be adopted to guarantee a subsidy to the municipalities during the term of their franchises based on the 1960-61 cash deficits.

NEXT SESSION

An answer will have to be made within the next year so that this legislation could be presented to the legislature at the next session.

This raised a suspicion that a deadline exists, although municipal leaders maintained the premier assured them the status quo would continue until franchises expired if they wished.

The fact that the premier himself, and alone, opened negotiations on the tough question fed rumors that the government is determined to shed the buses soon.

A JOKER?

One observer, unconnected with the meeting, said he felt that the promised legislation probably would contain a "joker"—creating metropolitan governments in both areas if the civic leaders rejected the premier's offer.

However, top government officials insisted that the government—which always has favored metro government for the two areas—feels that the bus issue is an appropriate and natural start toward this goal which would not require any government pushing.

The premier's offer of selling only the rolling stock and retaining the transit company's real property is believed to stem from the legal tangles surrounding the privately-held B.C. Electric debentures which amount to mortgages on the property.

Both Vancouver Mayor Tom Alsbury and Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy emphasized that the municipalities will take their time to make a thorough study of the proposals before making up their minds.

ABSTRACT of the Inner Harbor by Herbert Siebner, left, touched off a row today when he donated it to the city to express his appreciation of the home he had found here. It was received by Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell, right. Almost immediately, a drive began to give it away.

Problem: Hang It in City Hall Or 'Stuff It Under Door Mat'

By JOHN MIKA

To the ramparts, citizens! City Hall today seethed like a Paris battleground of abstract art.

Handing in the balance is an "expressionistic" canvas by Herbert Siebner received by the city as a gift from the grateful artist minutes before he took the oath of allegiance as a citizen.

Moments after the artist, his wife and 11-year-old daughter Angela trooped out of City Hall, a drive had begun to prevent hanging of the painting in the civic building.

IF WILLING

Several aldermen suggested it should be given to the Greater Victoria Art Gallery — if it would be willing to take it.

Early, an elderly amateur painter delivered a protest letter to the mayor's secretary demanding that the painting be "stuffed under the door mat."

Cause of the controversy, the three-by-two-foot canvas is entitled "Inner Harbor" and was described by the award-winning artist as an "expression" of the "sense of movement in the Inner Harbor on a warm summer day."

Dull blue and green colors enlivened by a few vivid yellow strokes predominate in the canvas painted from the Johnson Street bridge area and looking towards the Legislative Buildings.

VALUED AT $350

The canvas, valued at $350, had this message scrawled on its back:

"With love and thanks to Victoria... where I found something — a place to live."

The response to the painting was anything but love and thanks.

"If that's our harbor, then I would say we should clean it up," commented Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

Before Mr. Siebner arrived to make the presentation, an agitated Mrs. Edith Eaton, 1228 Fort Street, delivered her protest letter to the mayor's secretary.

"I got so mad when I heard this man was going to present that terrible thing to the city that my heart's still beating like fury," she said.

'STUFF IT'

"I told the mayor in my letter he should stuff it under the door mat."

"These abstract daubs are not art. They are an insult to art."

Mrs. Eaton, who admitted series of his impressions of various B.C. communities.)

Mr. Siebner took Mrs. Eaton's criticism like a trouper and airily replied in his German accent:

"It is she that is making an insult. I am living in today but she must still be living in yesterday."

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell, who accepted the painting for the city, at first refused to pass any comment on the work except to say the city appreciated the gift.

NOT FOR HIM

But later he admitted that abstract art "simply doesn't appeal to me" even though he is a member of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery board.

He suggested the painting should be offered to the art gallery because the traditional architecture of City Hall "simply doesn't provide any suitable setting for such a painting."

Ald. Edgelow was more positive.

"I admire the man's gesture but we definitely should not hang it in City Hall. We should give it to the art gallery—if they will take it."

"The artist may understand that kin do art but I don't. In my wildest dreams I couldn't visualize that as our Inner Harbor."

'AN ABORTION'

Ald. Edgelow also said he was phoned Thursday night by a well-known painter and "she said it was just an abortion... that it would be a pity if it was allowed to hang in City Hall and we should stop it."

Ald. A. W. Toone, who also viewed the painting, said he felt it lacked some contrast to highlight the Legislative Buildings or Empress Hotel "but of course I may be interpreting it wrong. But then I would prefer to look at a geometric design."

Artist, Zoologist Become Canadians

A German artist and an American zoologist today renounced allegiance to their homelands to become citizens of Canada.

They were abstract painter Herbert Siebner from Stettin, Germany, and Dr. Arthur Robert Fontaine from New Hampshire, U.S.A., who is assistant professor of zoology at Victoria College.

With Mrs. Siebner, they took the oath as Canadian citizens at Victoria Courthouse after Judge J. B. Clearhue had told them they must first renounce "all allegiance" to Germany and the United States.

Mr. Siebner, 37, whose paintings have been the subject of considerable controversy, came to Victoria seven years ago after exhibiting his work in many parts of Canada and the United States.

'HAPPY DAY'

"This is a very happy day for us," he said. "Canada has given me a place to work in freedom. In Germany, under the Nazi regime, modern art was forbidden."

Mr. Siebner said he was "greatly amused" over recent objections from Prince George concerning his abstract impression of the city, which was published in the Victoria Daily Times.

"I have had no direct communication from them," he smiled. "It seems we have broken off diplomatic relations."

Dr. Fontaine, who has been at Victoria College since 1956, said he was happy to adopt Canada as his homeland.

PLEASANT PLACE

"This is a very pleasant place to live," he said, "and I hope to settle here."

Mrs. Hannelore Siebner, who is a professional window dresser, smiled and bowed when Judge Clearhue said: "It is my pleasure to welcome you as a new citizen of Canada."

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 1962—PAGE 17

MONTE ROBERTS

This is your Armed Forces reporter reporting. The subject of the report being how not to be an Armed Forces reporter.

The time was Thursday morning. The scene, the office. The action, your Armed Forces reporter winking sleep out of his eyes as he looked in the assignment book.

Opposite his name, your Armed Forces reporter saw: "Armories—Danby."

"Oh, what a Danby assignment," said your Armed Forces reporter, correctly assuming that the Danby referred to was the new B.C. Area Commander.

So your ASR collected a photographer, and tottered down the street to the Bay Street Armories.

There he was, greeted by the local army PRO, Len Smith, and the B.C. Area PRO, Reid Moyer, and the 25 Media Group PRO, Chuck McLeod.

"What gives?" yawned your ASR, somewhat awed in the presence of so many pros.

"The advocate-general is here," Reid Moyer said. (At least, that's what I THOUGHT he said.) "Maybe a picture?"

"Naw," I said, thinking to myself, who wants a picture of a lawyer, even an army lawyer. "But we'll take a shot of Brigadier Danby, maybe talking to one of the national survival trainees."

"But the advocate-general," said Reid (at least, that's what I THOUGHT he said), "is from Ottawa."

"Ottawa, schmottawa," I said. "So this is Danby's first time here since he actually took over area command, so let's have a picture of Danby."

"But," butted Reid, "you don't get this man from Ottawa here every day; this is his first time too."

"Oh, alright," I said. "We'll take two pictures. Danby and a trainee, and Danby with your man from Ottawa."

All three PROs looked at me a little strangely, but said that would be fine.

"I'll get the brigadier and the adjutant-general now," Chuck McLeod offered.

"The brigadier and—WHO?" I said, suddenly waking up.

"The adjutant-general. You know, he kind of runs the Canadian army, like," said Len Smith.

This is your former Armed Services reporter reporting. I think.

'Can't Starve' Says Burglar Prison-Bound

Gabor deBrody of Montreal was sentenced in city police court today to two and a half years in the B.C. penitentiary.

DeBrody, a resident of Canada for five and a half years, had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and theft arising out of a frustrated attempt to rob the Victoria Curling Club last Friday.

The theft was thwarted by an alert newsboy who heard scraping sounds coming from the club, and a policeman who caught the burglar after firing three warning shots.

"You are an enigma, a puzzling man," Magistrate W. Ostler told the migrated Hungarian.

Mr. Ostler said deBrody's probation report showed him to be a very intelligent man, but that he had a consistent record of bad company and deeds.

"You are consistently led into lawbreaking experiences," he said, "despite the fact that you have been treated leniently by authorities up to now."

NEEDED FOOD

DeBrody said he had never had a steady job since coming to Canada, and that he had to have food.

"I cannot starve," he said in broken English.

"This is still no excuse for crime," the magistrate replied.

Mr. Ostler told deBrody he must go to the penitentiary and said he hoped he could learn a trade there.

Then perhaps when you get out you will be able to settle down to a steady job."

JOB TALKS REQUESTED BY PROVINCE

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has asked Ottawa for a joint federal-provincial conference on unemployment.

Replying to opposition labor critic Rae Eddle (NDP-CCF New Westminster) in the Legislature Thursday, Mr. Peterson said the main aim is to obtain coverage for workers whose unemployment benefits had expired and were compelled to draw social assistance.

But another objective would be to retrain the unemployed to do required jobs, especially those people displaced by automation, the House was told.

Damage Feared To Berry Farms By Cold Snap

Fears that strawberry and loganberry plantations in Saanich and elsewhere on Vancouver Island may have been damaged by last month's cold snap, were expressed today by Alan Littler, B.C. horticulturist.

He said a complete survey will be conducted at the end of March to determine the extent of injury to berry plants on the island.

The cold winds between January 14 and 20 may have damaged the crowns of strawberries and canes of loganberries, he said.

"If this proves to be the case they will not carry a full load of fruit during the coming crop season," he said.

Candy Never, Never Fails To Please Fair Maidens...

By PENNY SAVER

I have one last word to offer for St. Patrick's Day gifts and that is candy. I've seen some wonderful candy that carries through the theme of potatoes and white and green very nicely.

Marzipan "spuds" will cause profound "thank you's" from the lucky girls who receive them.

They're irregular in shape—as potatoes are—and have white "eyes"—as potatoes do. They're packaged in miniature burlap bags tied with green ribbon and are only 50 cents a bag.

After dinner mint wafers will be a candy treat she won't be able to resist. They're available in green or white and will look tempting in any candy dish. Price of these is 80 cents a pound.

For those who boast a sweet tooth, there's green and white pastel chocolates which are tinted white chocolate coatings over different flavored cream centres. Believe me they are good! One pound sells for $1.70.

Another sumptuous candy that carries through with green and white is after-dinner mints, white with green filled centres. Bags sell for 25 cents each.

If your taste demands something with a little more chew, why not make it cashew brittle? Sound delicious? Or, what about walnut brittle or brazil nut brittle, with whole nuts in? You'll find nothing nicer. Price for these is $1.70 a pound.

For 70 cents a pound you'll like coconut brittle or the favorite stand-by, peanut brittle.

Looking for the gift that never fails to please? Take your choice of one of these and call me to find out where they're sold.

DEAR ABBY...

And He's a Comedian!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband thinks I'm Houdini. He expects me to do everything with both my hands tied behind my back. He likes to give big parties, but when the bills come he says I'm trying to send him to the poorhouse.

He would like me to go to work (for the money) but wants me at home whenever he is home, and he works a rotating shift. (Go figure that one out!) When we are up late the night before, he tells me not to get up early in the morning, but raises Cain because there's no breakfast. Please print this with any suggestions you may have.

NO HOUDINI! DEAR HOUDINI: When your husband snorts and growls, don't take him seriously. He realizes that his demands are impossible. He also knows you aren't Houdini. If you were, you'd have made him disappear years ago.

DEAR ABBY: We frequently have weekend guests. Before retiring I say, "We will serve breakfast at 9 a.m." One of my husband's aunts is an early riser and she is up and dressed and prowling around the kitchen at 8:00 getting her own breakfast. I do not like anyone in my kitchen, and I do not care to get up with the chickens to serve my guests at this hour. Have you a solution?

UPSET HOSTESS DEAR HOSTESS: Either give your early rising guest a "survival kit" before she retires or be a good sport and let her use your kitchen.

DEAR ABBY: My problems are my two sons—8 and 11. I can't take them anywhere because of the way they act. They are forever fighting with each other. I've had friends and relatives tell me please if I come over to leave the boys home. My neighbors chase them out of their yards and don't want their children playing with mine. My boys are human, Abby, and it hurts me to see them treated this way. Sometimes I feel like knocking their heads off but I have never hit them and it's too late to start now. What should I do?

MRS. Z. DEAR MRS. Z.: Unfortunately, your sons are paying the price for what you failed to teach them years ago. Help them by explaining that unless they control their tempers and learn to get along with each other (and others) they will have no friends and will never be welcome anywhere. Keep them apart until they learn you mean business. And keep them home until they shape up.

Still worrying about the same old problem? Write to Abby for a personal reply. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A Little Too Much Middle? Try This Waist Exercise

Q. "Am I overweight? I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 126 pounds. My measurements are bust 36, waist 29 and hips 38 inches."

A. If you have a medium frame, you are only about three or four pounds too much. If you have a very small frame, you should lose more—about 10 pounds. Your measurements are good. You might take a few abdominal and waist-slimming exercises for nearer perfection. Here is one for the waist:

Q. "I have a nervous habit of biting my nails. I have a strong will power until I take a test or something else happens that worries me to a large extent. I am 15 years old and do not want desperately to have long nails. What can I do?"

A. In the first place, since you get along without biting your nails except during times of strain, you must be alerted in a special way for these times. I think it would be a good idea to get a professional manicure with light or colorless nail polish just before such times. Also, apply to your fingertips one of the products which discourages nail biting. Perhaps the combination of the bad taste in your mouth and the thought that you do not want to damage your manicure, may help.

Q. "What can I do about little blood vessels which show on my nose and cheeks? What causes them?"

A. I do not think anyone knows what causes them. Some folks may have larger capillaries, or these may be nearer the surface, or the skin may be thinner than in others.

At one time diet was thought to be the cause. Highly seasoned foods or very hot foods, chocolate, alcohol, tea and coffee, were suspect. While some of these items dilate the blood vessels and, therefore, aggravate the condition, I do not think that they are now considered to be the cause. For instance, many people who never take a drink have this condition.

Q. "We are having a great argument at our house about whether alcohol is fattening. I read that it is not stored as fat, but is burned up by the body rapidly. What about this?"

A. Your information is correct in that alcohol is burned quickly and is not stored as fat. However, you did not go far enough in your thinking. Alcohol supplies calories which might otherwise come from fatty deposits.

Q. "When I sit at a desk all day long, sometimes at the end of a day my ankles are swollen. Why is this and what should I do?"

A. When you have a swelling such as this, you should have a physical examination right away. However, long sessions of sitting can cause it. A person whose job is very sedentary, should get up once in a while and walk about the room for a few minutes, or at least stand up and walk about the desk a couple of times.

Such a person also should change her position on the chair and the position of her legs.

IT'S A STORY

Height Led Her to Study High Style

By PAT DUFOUR

Sometimes a so-called handicap can turn out to be a good-luck talisman. So it is with Miss Susan Lewis, 24-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lewis of Despard Avenue.

She explains that it was her height that first made her aware of the value of good styling.

"I started making my own clothes because I'm so tall—5'10"—and years ago I began to study fashion magazines and pick out good lines and trends."

This "know how" stood her in good stead when she knocked on doors at the offices of Harper's Bazaar in London, Eng., looking for a job.

"I walked in and got a job as a secretary. The girl I replaced had given her notice that morning. Three months later I was the assistant merchandise editor."

This position she filled for two years until she was asked to return to Canada. It entailed mostly detail work, checking colors and sizes of fashions shown in the magazine and arranging fashion shows as part of public relations work.

One such show was held in the American Embassy last November and featured American sportswear.

"The British women flocked to see it but I don't think that many of them would be tempted to buy."

This sales-resistance she attributes to the fact that North American styles do not have such a wealth of variety in the small price range.

"English designers are able to produce smart fashions, much better finished than their American contemporaries and far more reasonably priced."

While overseas Miss Lewis soon learned that her belief that all English women are "weedy" was a misconception.

"They certainly wear a lot of tweed—but there's nothing dowdy about it. They love definite colors and the cut is superb."

Part of her luggage contains samples of materials in color combinations that would make a rainbow take second place.

One particularly exciting sample is of black velvet, woven on a golden background that literally glows when seen under artificial light.

Job openings for Canadians in London seem unlimited, says this fair-haired woman.

"We don't have to have work permits as the Americans do, and the British economy seems geared to provide jobs for anybody who wants to work."

But there are drawbacks. "Maybe because the British are such definite individualists firms seem to run in a very disjointed way. One gets the impression that the word 'efficiency' is almost a bad word."

This same individuality, however, also results in teenagers appearing far more smartly dressed than their North American counterparts, says this Canadian observer.

What made her come back? "I was homesick for Victoria and, besides, if I'd stayed any longer I would have had to get a British passport."

Although she affirms that "Victoria is the nicest place in Canada," it's doubtful if this fashion-minded miss will be able to stay here long. Her ambitions will probably push her in an easterly direction soon.

"I would like to do whatever I could to help make Canada nationally-conscious when it comes to clothes. This will probably mean that I'll end up either in Montreal or Toronto."

Meanwhile she's taking a "breather," visiting old friends and, of course, sewing some new additions for her own wardrobe.

Annual Meeting

Victoria Municipal Chapter IOOE will hold its annual meeting on Monday at 2 p.m. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. and the evening session will begin at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the C and C Hall, 904 Government Street.

Proceeds To Finance "Elijah"

Sum of $200 was realized at luncheon and tea given by the Victoria Choral Society in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room on Thursday. Proceeds will be used for expenses of an orchestra for the society's "Elijah" to be produced in May.

General convener, Mrs. M. Keifer, was assisted by Mrs. M. Mawer, Mrs. G. Duckworth and Mrs. O. Wadams. The latter also convened a home-cooking stall.

Receiving guests were Mrs. Mawer, Mrs. N. Lindberg, Mrs. Iris Paver and Mrs. F. Webster.

Daffodils, narcissi and plum blossoms were arranged in a silver bowl on the head table at which presided Mrs. M. Garrard, Mrs. M. Mattrass, Mrs. M. Allard and Mrs. E. Webster. White candles in silver candelabra completed decor.

Individual tables were centred with vases of plum blossom and daffodils. Flowers were arranged by Miss Norah Hughes.

Sandwiches were made by Mrs. Paver, Mrs. M. Edmundson, Mrs. B. Simonson, Mrs. K. Smith, Mrs. M. Martin, Miss D. Wiles and Miss Pam Davis.

Servicemen were Mrs. M. Behague, Mrs. M. Bennett and the Misses Sue Bassante, Pat Ridding, Pam Paver and Terry French. T. Tarn provided background music.

Others helping were: Tea and coffee urns, Mrs. B. Lee and Mrs. K. Dixon; ticket sales, M. White and S. Holeman; kitchen committee, Mrs. M. Fish, Mrs. G. McKeown, Mrs. J. Gordon, Mrs. M. Cockburn, Mrs. B. Gill, Mrs. H. Clatworthy, Mrs. M. Cornock, Mrs. D. Dentith and Miss D. Battlee.

Handling door receipts were Mrs. J. E. Brown and Mrs. Mattrass. C. Pattle organized display advertising and Mrs. Lindberg, publicity.

Mrs. Kennedy Sees Holy City And Visits Famous Silk Factory

BANARES, India (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy sailed the holy Ganges River today—past Hindu pilgrims and water-buffalo bathing in the muddy waters and bodies burning on sacred pyres along the shore.

A servant uniformed in crimson and gold held a white silk parasol over Mrs. Kennedy's head as her 40-foot motor launch cruised three miles up and down the river past the holy city which Hindus consider a gateway to heaven.

Then she left by plane for Udaipur to spend the night in the white marble palace of Maharana Shri Bhagwat of Udaipur.

With her on the cruise were her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith and a two dozen others in her personal party.

Mrs. Kennedy arrived in Banares by special train from Agra where she viewed the marble splendor of the Taj Mahal by sunlight and moonlight.

Entertain Society

Miss K. Horner led the Quadra School orchestra when they entertained the Junior Musical Arts Society recently. Musical program also included numbers by the members.

Piano solos were given by Fern Chapman, Claudia Edwards, Faye McConnell, Elizabeth Townsend, Wendy Aaronson and Carolyn-Grace Heal. Faye McConnell and Elizabeth Townsend played a duet.

An oboe solo was given by Mary Howland. She was accompanied by Joan McCandlish.

Vocal solo was sung by Deanna Neilson with Mrs. Pat Mills as accompanist.

Mrs. T. H. Johns, president of the board of directors, gave a brief talk. President Joan McCandlish was in the chair. Colin Bonneau was pianist and David Foster program chairman.

Plans were finalized for annual recital to be held in the Newstead Hall on Friday, March 30, at 7:30 p.m.

From the boat cruise she went to a factory where weavers make the silk for which Banares is famous and paid a brief visit to nearby Sarnath, where the lord Buddha is said to have preached his first sermon 2,500 years ago.

Plans were finalized for annual recital to be held in the Newstead Hall on Friday, March 30, at 7:30 p.m.

SOLUTION MONDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

What Exactly Is a Vacuum?

When you buy a vacuum flask or a vacuum cleaner, you are really paying money for what would seem to be nothing at all. Your money, however, is well spent, for this nothing can do all kinds of work. The flask can keep hot soup hot, or cold drinks cold for hours. The vacuum cleaner can pick up the dirt and draw out the dust as if by magic.

The world seems to be full of large and small empty spaces, but this is not so. An empty drawer is full of air. Air fills the wide outdoors and seeps down into the small pockets of the crumbly soil.

If you remove a small pocket from the air, the surrounding air rushes in to fill up the hole, just as water flows in to fill up a hole.

It is no easy job to remove the air from a seemingly empty space. When you perform this trick, you have a vacuum—a hole full of nothing. Your vacuum must be sealed at once, or air and many other things will rush in to fill it up again.

The vacuum in a vacuum flask is sealed between a double wall of glass. The vacuum cleaner is made and remade so long as the motor runs. The motor drives a fan which draws out a column of air and air from the room flows in through the nozzle to replace it, to fill up the hole. The rush of replacing air is so strong that it draws dust and debris along with it.

If you put an alarm clock into a glass jar, remove the air and seal the jar, you will discover that a vacuum has still other qualities. The clock will go on ticking, the alarm bell will ring, but you will be unable to hear a sound. For sound cannot pass through the empty space which is a vacuum. Heat cannot pass through a vacuum either. This is why a vacuum flask can keep soup hot.

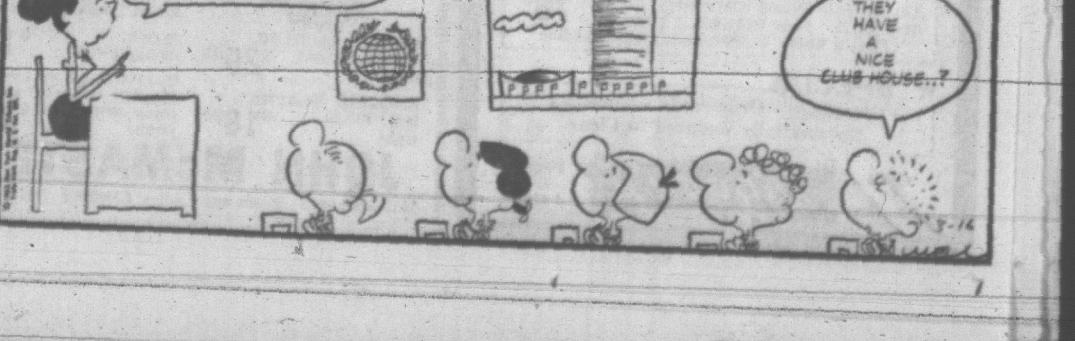

Keeps Cold Drink Chilly

It keeps a cold drink cold because it also refuses to let heat pass from the outside to the inside of the flask.

The empty space which is a vacuum, then, is far from nothing. It can be very useful and we have put it to work in many other gadgets besides flasks and cleaners. However, the best man-made vacuum can be called only a partial vacuum. A few molecules of air remain in a vacuum tube and also between the glass walls of the flask.

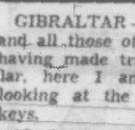

If we could make a perfect vacuum, free from the last molecule of air, and then seal it, we would have a pocket of complete silence with a temperature that never changed.

You put a small vacuum to work when you suck a soda pop through a straw. As you suck on the straw, you draw out some of the air. This removes the normal air pressure from the soda, and the liquid rushes all by itself up into your mouth.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

GIBRALTAR—With Jackie and all those other Kennedys having made travelling popular, here I am at "Gib" looking at the famous monkeys.

"Let's go see the monkeys!" shouted practically all the camera-toting passengers of the Leonardo da Vinci cruise when we anchored.

And those revelers from New Jersey, Texas, Missouri, Florida, Ohio and California—who never go to the zoo at home—hopped onto the tender to rush to see the 20 or 30 apes loose at the top of The Rock.

"Monkeys—on—the Rock," they call it.

You remember the legend—that apes' ancestors came from Africa in a tunnel man's never discovered—and the superstition: "As long as the apes are here, the British will be here, which was not meant to be humorous.

Those of us who "went ape" were Patricia Munsel and her husband, Bob Schuler; actor Guy Madison, Becktop, and Earl (Celebrity Service) Blackwell.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

"Missing" Darryl Zanuck was at El Morocco with new discovery and G.F. Irene Demich, who flew from Paris to meet him. He'd rested from "The Longest Day"—visiting grandchildren in Acapulco.

Glamor man Dickie Burton's been visited at the "Cleopatra" set in Rome by ex-Copacabana doll Pat Tunder. . . Playwright Russel Crouse's fine after hospital treatment. . . Rosemary Clooney, who still gets tearful talking of the Jose Ferrer bust-up, goes to court April 30 to fight for house occupancy and $2,500-a-month for herself and five children. Says she hasn't talked to Joe in months: "Now I have to work my tail off."

The Kirk Douglasses week-ended at Sam Spiegel's "His" and "Hers" apt, here but only used the "His" section. . . Some Vegas boys who gave heavy sugar to JFK's campaign are saying "That's gratitude!" about brother Bobby's cleanup drive. . . Arriving: Busty Laya Raki, flying from Munich to L.A. to join husband Ron Randall, lost a bag containing her bras. She'll never miss it.

Teresa Brewer lost her voice temporarily at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe, and the Mary Kaye trio subdued. . . Shelley Winters is a possible vacation replacement for Bette Davis in "Iguana." . . John Mills of "Ross," who gashed his hand last week, has another, uh, wound—he sat down on a piece of glass. . . Sinatra and Prowse'll both be "on the 'H'wood Melody" TV'er March 19—she's on tape, he's on film clips. . . Carol Burnett was invited to a dinner honoring musician Artur Schnabel, as "his favorite comedienne," she'll be on the dais with Stokowski.

EARL'S PEARLS: The first sign of spring is in the Sunday traffic, when you see all the freshly-blooming idiots.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "I know of only one family that lived within its income," claims Jesse Kaplan—and they had to borrow money to do it."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Not only is the horse just about extinct, but also people who used to work like one. Hank Grant.

Shelley Berman, accepting a "Best Comic" of '61 award from a college group, told them, "I suspect I'm the best comic of 1961 that you could get to appear here." That's earl, brother.

ON HIS OWN since the widely separated deaths of his two famous collaborators, Lorenz Hart and Oscar Hammerstein II, composer Richard Rodgers, above, has just produced his new musical, "No Strings," at the 54th Street Theatre in New York. It was the first time he had written both words and music for a show. Many innovations featured the production, notably placing of the orchestra behind and to the side of the stage instead of in the pit. Critics said the show was excellent but marred by a "wishy-washy" story.

Sinatra Suit Settled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A parking lot attendant dropped his $100,000 assault suit against actor Frank Sinatra after the matter was settled for an unspecified sum Wednesday. Edward Moran, 22, had complained that Sinatra and a friend beat him in an altercation in May, 1960, in a nightclub parking lot.

Sparkling Comedies Mean Full Houses at Festival

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Comedies have dominated the Victoria Schools Drama Festival so far and the fourth program Thursday night was no exception.

One play came into the category of a "thriller." Lansdowne Junior High School, hosts for the occasion, provided this slight variation. The excellent support the festival is receiving was again noticeable in the well-filled auditorium.

"THE GRAND CHAM'S DIAMOND" By Alan Northrup Presented by Lansdowne Junior High School

Director: Mr. A. C. McNeil-Caird
Stage Manager: Christopher Denny
Stage Crew: Alan Dickinson, Robert Walker, Billy Giesbrecht, Doreen, Miss S. Bidwell, Mrs. J. I. Simpson

This was the most enjoyable production, Mrs. Firkins considered.

She admired the clever set and good costumes. There had been pleasing variety of tone and tempo in the voices at all times.

She was particularly impressed with the fencing duel which, she said, was unusually convincing.

The play had been well and knowledgeably staged and there was not a weak character but the adjudicator particularly commended Christopher Denny for an excellent characterization of an old man and David Cliff, playing the "Princess" was also warmly praised for his poise and dignity, while Timothy Stanley-Clarke was complimented on doing a fine job in a dual role.

"THE MAYOR OF TORONTO" By Gwendolyn Jones Presented by Belmont Junior High School

Director: Mrs. Phyllis Dullage
Assistant to the Director: Lynda Bryant, Jocelyn Lebrun, Stage Manager: Mr. G. M. McIntosh
Assistant to the Stage Manager: Richard Warrington, Norman Robillard

Here again was a most effective set and fine teamwork, Mrs. Firkins found.

Student Reprimanded

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — School officials have reprimanded a student who slugged George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi party, at a meeting of San Diego State College. The disciplinary action against Edward Cherry, 22, was recommended by the student's body judicial board.

Education Control By Quebec Stressed

HULL, Que. (CP) — State Secretary Noel Dorion said Wednesday night that if the time ever comes when Quebec does not control education in the province, Quebecers will be in the same position as French-language minorities in other provinces.

He was addressing a meeting of the Hull Progressive Conservative Association.

Pointing out that Quebec must be against any intrusion from any quarter in the field of education, he attacked the federal Liberal party for its platform plank of establishing federal scholarships for university students and the New Democratic Party because of the Saskatchewan government's stand on amendment of the British North America Act—Canada's constitution.

Mr. Dorion said under the constitution, the provinces have control of education at all levels. While this created difficulties for French-language minorities in other provinces, it cally good, having clarity and projection, she commented. The actors moved well and she particularly felt Tom Croft had given a very believable characterization.

"UNDERSTUDY TO A KING" By Alice Mackenzie Presented by Glenora Preparatory School

Director: Timothy Stanley-Clarke
Stage Crew: John Sturdy, Michael, Duke of Strelson, Lee Edwards, Princess Flavia, David Cliff, Count Fritz, Alan Hughes, A Guard, Peter Waters

Individual characters were nicely thought out and consistent, the cast so well balanced that no one actor could be mentioned as a standout, Mrs. Firkins felt.

"A most entertaining production," she concluded. Something extra in the way of excitement is added to tonight's program at S. J. Willis Junior High.

At conclusion of her adjudication, Mrs. Firkins will announce her choice of three plays to be repeated Saturday night in an honor performance at Oak Bay Junior High.

Plays to be seen tonight are "The Rising of the Moon," presented by Mount Newton Junior Secondary School; "On Dartmoor," by Victoria High and "The Happy Journey," by Esquimalt Senior High.

FEDERAL REDISTRIBUTION GUIDE

Big Variation in Ridings Revealed By New Census

OTTAWA (CP)—A vote of a fisherman in the lonely Magdalen Islands carries 20 times as much weight as that of a resident of the bustling Toronto suburb of Scarborough in electing his member of Parliament.

The sparsely-inhabited Ile-de-la-Madeleine federal constituency in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the exploding suburban riding of York-Scarborough represent opposite ends of the population spectrum in parliamentary representation.

The 1961 census figures for federal electoral districts, issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, show a population of 12,497 in Ile-de-la-Madeleine and 775,252 for York-Scarborough.

These figures compared with the national average of 68,823 population for each of the 265 parliamentary seats based on Canada's total population of 18,238,247 at June 1, 1961. After the last census in 1956 the national average was 60,682, based on a population of 16,080,791.

The mushroom growth of the suburbs in Canada's two largest cities has resulted in the two-member constituencies losing its place as the most populous riding. It is now surpassed by the single-member ridings of York - Scarborough and Montreal - Mercier.

'Oil Firms Should Speak As Landlords'

The Automotive Retailers Association Thursday challenged the right of major oil companies to speak on behalf of service station operators.

The association presented a written submission to the legislature's municipal affairs committee which is studying service station hours of operation.

The submission said the major oil companies "have taken the position of representing and speaking for some 3,000 retail dealers, whether they like it or not."

"We suggest that the oil companies should speak as landlords and as wholesale suppliers," the ARA said. "... they are entitled to their opinion but we are challenging their right to attempt to represent and speak for retail dealers who they proudly describe as 'independent' retailers."

OPPOSED CHANGES
The major oil companies, in several earlier submissions, opposed changes in the Municipal Act, proposed by the ARA, which would restrict hours of service station operation and limit the number allowed to remain open in late evening hours.

The ARA said today the major companies are opposed to any legislation which would interfere with their policy of "counseling" retailers on hours of operation, "which forcible policy they have found to be effective."

"They want no regulation and a no-holds-barred based policy."

The ARA said that it, as a voluntary organization, had made specific proposals, having "due consideration for the convenience and wellbeing of the travelling public," and which "would be fair to all and of very real benefit to the vast majority of automotive retailers."

The only real opposition to the proposals, the ARA said, has come from the landlord oil companies.

Rotarians Elect School Principal
CAMPBELL RIVER—High school principal Jim Smith has been named president-elect of the 52-member Campbell River Rotary Club.

New club directors are Ken Antonelli, Russ Preston, Dr. Ken Thompson, Bob Hainsworth, Frank Stapley, Sherman Evans and Murray Pickett.

New slate of officers will be installed on June 27.

The Montreal riding increased its population to 233,964 from 124,913. York-Scarborough rose from 167,310 while the Halifax count rose to 225,723 from 197,943.

HAS LEAST PEOPLE
Canada's only other two-member constituency is Queens, P.E.I., whose population rose slightly to 45,842 from 43,425.

Ile-de-la-Madeleine, whose population in 1956 was 11,556, retains the distinction of being the least-populous constituency in each census.

The suburban boom is reflected further in that five other ridings now have populations of more than 150,000. The Montreal riding of Jacques Cartier - LaSalle rose to 163,148 from 110,931 and Laval to 193,437 from 117,525; the Toronto area constituencies of York Centre to 190,405 from 127,591 and York West to 162,778.

The higher population of these suburban constituencies follows the traditional pattern whereby it takes fewer voters to elect an MP in a rural than in urban area.

The new census figures are also expected to be a principal guide, though not the only one, in determining the next major redistribution of parliamentary seats.

Populations of federal constituencies in Western Canada at June 1, 1961 (June 1, 1956 figures bracketed):

HUSBANDS WONDERFUL SHOULD BE TOLD SO

LONDON (AP)—Viscountess Lewisham thinks husbands are wonderful people. "But you've got to keep telling them they're wonderful," she told a meeting of women members of Britain's ruling Conservative party Wednesday.

A member of the London County Council, 32-year-old Lady Lewisham said: "Kiss your husband goodnight in the morning and when he returns each night."

"Never bore him with your troubles until he has told you about his."

"Wear your best clothes for your family."

"Keep your best rooms for the family and give them your best food. Visitors can have what the family does not need."

Lady Lewisham's husband is Viscount Lewisham, a London banker. Married 14 years, they have two sons: Lord Lewisham is heir to the eighth Earl of Dartmouth.

Lady Lewisham also appealed to Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Selwyn Lloyd, to give an Easter blessing to marriage by allowing more money for morality.

"At present," she said, "the government pays people to live in sin."

Explaining, she said married couples are given personal income tax allowances of £240, but an unmarried couple living together can claim a total of £280.

"The government," she said, "is thereby making a present of £40 for immorality."

TITAN PASSES TEST

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The most powerful United States military rocket ever flown, the towering Titan 2, successfully passed its maiden test flight today, streaking to a South Atlantic target more than 5,000 miles away.

The success, announced by the U.S. Air Force, bolstered defence department hopes of fully developing the blockbuster weapon in about a year and gave tremendous boost to future U.S. manned and unmanned space exploration plans.

SHRUM

ON PEACE POWER COST

UBC Group Told Figuring Wrong

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Electric Company chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum has challenged the findings in a report of a University of B.C. professor - engineering group which criticized the Peace River hydro project.

In a two-page report prepared by B.C.E. research director Dr. John Davis, Dr. Shrum suggested the university group should make a public correction of their findings.

Dr. Shrum said the university group had used a different approach in calculating costs of hydro power sources in B.C. than had the B.C. Energy Board in costing the Peace.

Using the professors' formula, Dr. Shrum said, would bring Peace power costs down from 4.37 to 3.5 mills.

The BCE chief said that if the professors "accept the validity of the errors and discrepancies pointed out by Dr. Davis, it seems to me you have an obligation to make public a correction."

Dr. Harry Warren, chairman of the university group, said he and his colleagues would be happy to make a public correction if Dr. Davis' criticisms are warranted. But members of the group added they did not think Dr. Davis' findings are valid and that they have no intention of retracting their own findings at this time.

DELAY PEACE

The university professors in their private study of power sources in B.C. recommended that the Peace project be delayed and that such projects as development of Hat Creek coal deposits for power and erection of a dam at Moran on the Fraser River be given consideration. They also felt the Columbia River international treaty should be renegotiated with the United States.

The professors said the Moran Dam would produce 2.74 mill power, the High Arrow Dam on the Columbia 2.07 mills, Hat Creek 3.7 mills and a proposed Burrard thermal plant 4.04 mills. These costs compared with the energy board's estimate of 4.37 mill power from the Peace.

HAS HERO'S CITATION

Military sources in Saigon said the plane was due in South Viet Nam this morning. It was assumed in the South Vietnamese capital that the military personnel aboard the plane were to join U.S. forces bolstering the government's fight against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

A plaque on pilot Gregory Thomas' home cites him for "exceptionally meritorious conduct and professional achievements in performance of his duties as pilot in command of a Flying Tiger Line DC-8 aircraft which was forced to ditch in New York's Jamaica Bay on June 21, 1957, without loss of life or serious injury."

Two of the worst disasters in aviation history occurred earlier this month.

On March 1, an American Airlines Boeing 707 jet crashed in Jamaica Bay, killing all 95 aboard. Three days later a chartered British airliner crashed near Douala in the West African republic of Cameroon and all 111 persons aboard were killed.

GETS BOUT

After being rated as top challenger for the heavyweight title for some time, Sonny Liston, above, will get his big chance this summer. Liston and champion Floyd Patterson signed today for a 15-round title fight, the date and site to be fixed later. The bout is expected to be staged in New York's Yankee Stadium.

U.S. Seeking A-Test Race Russ Charge

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union accused the United States today of seeking resumption of a nuclear arms-testing race and said American negotiations in Geneva are avoiding a "serious approach" to this problem.

This charge from Soviet Ambassador Tsarapkin came as Eastern and Western groupings in the 17-nation disarmament conference began openly to woo the eight countries in the non-aligned section—Brazil, India, Mexico, the United Arab Republic, Sweden, Burma, Nigeria and Ethiopia.

The "eight middle men," as the representatives of the eight neutrals have been dubbed, began their own moves in the conference to keep the United States and the Soviet Union negotiating on the widest possible range of disarmament and nuclear testing problems.

As a first step Indian Foreign Minister V. K. Krishna-Menon called on the conference to switch its emphasis from formal speech-making to intimate study sessions by U.S. State Secretary Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko of the complex disarmament problem.

Rusk, who supported Menon's suggestion, met with the Indian delegation head immediately after the conference session.

CANADA AGREES

Canada's External Affairs Minister Green said after the meeting that "it is very much in line with our thinking that the conference should get into informal meetings and the ministers start tying up what they can agree on."

Green said there was a great urgency to get something done at the conference which was a "race against time."

He described the three statements this morning's speeches as "still very moderate."

The atmosphere is still very cooperative.

When the session broke up Green had an informal 15-minute talk with Britain's Lord Home.

Conference prospects suffered a blow Thursday night when the Soviet Union rejected U.S. terms for a test ban. Resumption of U.S. nuclear weapon tests in the atmosphere as a result.

HUGE VOLCANO REPORTED OFF ANTARCTICA

LONDON (AP)—The British admiralty reported today there has been a gigantic volcanic eruption beneath the surface of the Scotia Sea, just outside the Antarctic circle off the southeast tip of South America.

The Royal Navy ice patrol ship Protector said thousands of square miles of the Scotia Sea and South Atlantic ocean were covered with floating chunks of pumice and dust and the area smelled strongly of sulphur.

She ship added that large clouds of steam were rising from uninhabited Zavodovski Island, which appeared to be within 15 miles of the eruption's centre.

Rebels Face Fierce Fight In Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—President Miguel Ydigoras Thursday night claimed 40,000 supporters were streaming into this Guatemalan capital to join the army in crushing a revolt he charged was led by "Castro-Communist elements."

Bitter clashes broke out Thursday in the capital of Central America's most populous republic as thousands of demonstrators led by students blocked traffic, set fire to automobiles and smashed store windows. All bus and most railway service in the capital was paralyzed.

Hospital spokesmen said they counted four dead and 72 injured.

A traveller arriving in Panama from Guatemala said the situation in the country is serious and that the government had clamped censorship on all outgoing calls and dispatches.

FLYING TACKLE

Logging contractor Bud Hallock, 32, said he bowled the suspect over with a tackle as he ran down the street.

He said he was driving near the bank when he heard gunfire. He got out of his truck and saw the bank manager pointing at a running man.

"I flagged down a passing car and we chased him. The car got in front of him and I got out. As he came toward me I yelled to him to stop but he didn't."

"I threw a tackle at him and we went down. The car driver helped me hold him until police arrived."

OTTAWA (CP)—William Adams, 40, of St. Catharines, sought since 1949 in connection with his father's murder, is Canada's most wanted criminal, the RCMP said today.

Adams, born in Timmins, Ont., has been on the RCMP's list of most wanted criminals since 1953. He has worked as a crane operator, machinist and salesman.

A revised list contains the names of six men.

The others, in the order they stand on the list, are: John Frederick Meagher, 51, of Toronto, wanted by the Metropolitan Toronto police for escaping custody in 1956 while en route to court to face charges of armed robbery.

Roy Edward Holowaty, 36, and Donald Edward Kolt, 30, both wanted for escaping from the Saskatchewan penitentiary at Prince Albert Nov. 12, 1961.

The men, both serving 10-year terms for robbery with violence, may be armed and are considered dangerous.

Roger McLean, 37, wanted by Quebec police for escaping custody Dec. 10, 1961, and wounding with intent. McLean was convicted in Ottawa Nov. 22, 1962, on charges of armed robbery and sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary. McLean is considered "extremely dangerous."

He escaped in Montreal where he was to face several charges.

Renders Radar Useless

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Premier Khrushchev claimed today that Russia has developed an invulnerable "global missile," following an announcement that a Soviet "cosmic ship" was orbiting the earth.

Khrushchev said United States radar systems would be useless against the "global" missile since it could strike from any direction.

"You can't expect it through the door and it comes through the window," the Soviet leader said.

He claimed there was no defence against the missile which could "fly in any direction and land at any spot." The weapon made the U.S. as militarily vulnerable as any country in the world, he said.

INTERUPTS SPEAKER

Khrushchev made the announcement of the launching of the "cosmic ship"—the same phrase used to describe the globe-girdling vehicles that carried Russia's two spacemen into orbit—while interrupting a speaker at an election meeting attended by 6,000 persons in the Kremlin palace.

He said the ship had gone up at 3 p.m. Moscow time (7 a.m. EST).

Tass news agency said it was "an artificial earth satellite launched with a view to continuing the Soviet program of outer space research."

Moscow radio said the satellite was unmanned and was orbiting the earth every 93 minutes at heights of 135 to 610 miles.

This would take it well into the belt of radioactive particles surrounding the earth that Soviet scientists have said must be investigated before man can fly to the moon.

NEVER WILL AGREE

Khrushchev made his statement about the "global rocket" apparently to reinforce his views on the current disarmament negotiations at Geneva. Referring to Western proposals for an effective control system, he said "we will never agree to this."

A control system, he argued, would be nothing but an espionage service for the West.

Near the end of a talk of an hour and 37 minutes, Khrushchev said the Soviet Union will resume testing of nuclear weapons if the U.S. starts atmospheric tests.

He denounced American support of South Viet Nam. He said the United States had supported trouble-makers in Laos, but their efforts were doomed to failure.

The meeting was organized to support Khrushchev's candidacy for a seat in the Supreme Soviet. An introductory speaker was talking about space ships and rockets when Khrushchev, sitting behind him, blurted out the news of the new missile.

TAKING THE LEAD

Khrushchev told the election meeting that the Soviet Union was taking the lead in forming a society where man could not be exploited by his fellow man.

"Communism has now ceased to be a dream," he said, and added that socialism was bringing benefits to many countries.

The meeting was broadcast over a nationwide radio and television hookup. Khrushchev received a three-minute standing ovation as he began what had been forecast as his first major foreign policy speech in three months.

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

MARCH 16

Word was received that the wrecked vessel Tolo (see Feb. 27, et seq.) has been righted and towed to Port Townsend by the steam-tug Resolute.

A police drive on Yates Street netted a number of residents who were summoned to appear before the police magistrate on charges of throwing ashes in the streets.

Some of the shingles took fire on the roof of the Congregational Church when the joint of the stovepipe parted. There happened to be several parishioners in the church at the time and they helped the minister, Mr. McFie, extinguish the blaze without calling the fire department.

A complimentary ball for Mrs. R. J. McDonnell will be held tomorrow evening in the Lyceum, tendered by a number of her friends.

Meeting Orders Water Petition

SIDNEY—A petition asking for formation of a water district to include the Deep Cove-Patricia Bay area will be circulated in about 10 days, it was announced today by Jack W. Gibbs, president, Deep Cove Property Owners' Association.

Decision to launch the petition was made at a meeting Thursday night in the Canadian Legion Hall on Mills Road, with close to 300 persons in attendance.

"The decision was unanimous," Mr. Gibbs said. "If the scheme materializes, then water will be purchased from Central Saanich municipality, which owns the Elk Lake system."

Reeve R. Gordon Lee of Central Saanich, who attended the meeting, gave assurance that the system can meet all local requirements.

Mr. Gibbs said the area to be served is mainly residential, and that the plan is to have a domestic rather than agricultural scheme. He said signatures of 70 per cent of property owners must be secured before application can be made for formation of a water district.

"Even then no one is committed," he said, "but we will have a recognized entity which can take action."

Chairman was Brig. F. N. Cabeldu.

DUNCAN — Current transportation dispute between Hillcrest Lumber Co. Ltd. at Meishie Lake, and 70 loggers remains unresolved in spite of a meeting Thursday between company officials and the International Woodworkers of America, representing the employees.

Last fall the company announced that after the end of the year it would discontinue its free bus service between here and Meishie Lake, west of Lake Cowichan.

The loggers who used to ride the bus have since turned out every day to meet the bus, and claim they are not on strike. The company has stated it has no intention of restoring the service.

QUALICUM BEACH — Construction of a 16-unit, $100,000 motel is expected to get under way here next week on property at the corner of the Island Highway and Memorial Avenue.

Qualicum Construction Co. Ltd. is building the single-level, boomerang-shaped motel for Mr. and Mrs. William Carter, former residents of North Bay, Ont.

The suites will have individual patios, and there will be a coffee shop. Land clearing and removal of buildings on the site already has begun.

LADYSMITH — Log hauling along the Comox Logging and Railway Company line from Nanaimo Lakes was halted temporarily Wednesday when the company's diesel locomotive jumped its track near the Ladysmith log dump.

No one was injured, and the 120-ton locomotive was eased back on the rails by machinery and work crews later in the day. A company official said the derailment was caused by the heavy engine spreading the track on a curve.

COURTENAY — An auditors' report accepted by the school board this week shows a budget surplus for 1961 of $23,000.

School board secretary C. N. Peterson said that higher than anticipated revenues and overestimated teacher salaries accounted for the major portion of the surplus. The budget allowed a total expenditure of $1,360,000.

The major expenses were listed as teacher salaries at three quarters of a million dollars and repair and maintenance costs of $73,000.

The 1962 budget has been set at $1,500,000.

Timber Man Opposes More Public Access

A logging company said Thursday it does not want to allow further public access to the west coast of Vancouver Island Gold River area.

T. R. Sheldon, president of Elk River Timber Co., told the legislature's special committee on public access that its private road to Gold River from Buttle Lake cannot handle normal automobile traffic.

At present only limited coach service is allowed on the road, and the company does not want anything more.

It is the only possible route to Gold River in the area, and full-time public access would be "impossible" in view of heavy logging traffic, said Mr. Sheldon.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood asked Mr. Sheldon if the company would agree to opening the road evenings and weekends to the general public.

"It would open up a tremendous recreation area," he said.

But Mr. Sheldon said under present conditions the company anything more than the bus service.

Dan Campbell (SC-Comox) asked if the company would agree to public access if the crown paid maintenance and took responsibility for controlling traffic.

Mr. Sheldon said he would co-operate if possible, but he was not enthusiastic.

Way Cleared On Pay Hike For Mayors

Legislation allowing a $2,500 increase in salary for top-paid mayors and Reeves in B.C. was introduced by the government Thursday.

Amendments to the Municipal Act, presented by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black, increases the pay for mayors, Reeves or community chairmen.

The present act puts salaries between $500 a year for areas of up to 500 population and $7,500 a year for cities over 50,000 population.

The amendments allow an increase of up to one-third of the present salaries.

The amendments also cover a number of other minor but contentious fields.

One grants the right to vote in municipal elections to wives of veterans. At present only the owner—almost always a man—of property obtained under the Veterans' Land Act is allowed to vote.

Another section allows the government to merge certain urban areas under one administration.

Specifically aimed at integration of services in the scattered municipality of Surrey, the amendments could also apply to other urban areas which might be amalgamated without a vote from the ratepayers.

Socreds Can Win But So What?—Gibson

North Vancouver Liberal Gordon Gibson conceded the next provincial election to the Socreds Thursday — but he asked if it were really necessary to do it now.

"I believe you'd go back in," he told Premier Bennett, who had just finished a five-minute election-type speech at the end of a late-night sitting of the legislature.

"But it wouldn't lengthen your lifetime in government," said Mr. Gibson.

"It would just cost the country a little more money. You've got enough seats over there already. You don't have to call an election," he said.

It was 11:30, and time the House adjourned and everyone went to bed, he said.

The House obliged 15 minutes later, approving Labor Minister Leslie Peterson's salary vote and all his departmental estimates by 11:45.

But not before the premier's little election speech, and another one from Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

Mr. Strachan added the final Opposition protest that the government did not have a full-time labor minister. "Having a part-time minister of labor is a calculated insult on the part of this government to the workers of B.C.," he said.

He went on to say the only way to provide a voice for all segments of the public was election of a New Democratic Party government.

Mr. Bennett protested it was "a straight political speech." He went on to make one of his own. He accused the Opposition of fanning "hatred between economic groups."

He defended Mr. Peterson's dual role as labor and education minister.

"He's no half-time minister of labor at all—he works more hours a day than the average person works."

City Frostbiters Hankering for Revenge

Upwards of 60 sailboats, manned by hardy "frostbiters", will race in Cudjoe Bay and Esquimalt Harbor in the winter's busiest sailing weekend Saturday and Sunday.

The gaily-colored, multi-

Feature of the weekend will be team racing between Royal Yacht Club, West Vancouver Yacht Club, and the host club, Royal Victoria.

Thirty-six Davidsons will compete in a series of five races over the Cudjoe Bay inner course, starting at 12 noon. Two weeks ago, in a similar series, the main club handed Victoria a handy trouncing, and the locals are thirsting for revenge.

On Sunday individual races are scheduled from 10:30 a.m. with as many as 50 Davidsons likely to start in a single race.

CHALLENGE

Sabot sailors of the Victoria club have accepted a challenge from an eight-boat team from Maple Bay Yacht club, and will race Saturday and Sunday.

At Esquimalt harbor, members of the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association will take on a team from HMCS Discovery, the Vancouver reserve naval establishment, in service dinghies.

Navy and civilian sailors will get together at a dinner in the RVCY clubhouse Saturday evening, and again at prize-giving ceremonies at the club Sunday.

The time was Thursday morning. The scene, the office. The action, your Armed Forces reporter wiping sleep out of his eyes as he looked in the assignment book.

Opposite his name, your Armed Forces reporter saw:

"Armories—Danby."

"Oh, what a Danby assignment," said your Armed Forces reporter, correctly assuming that the Danby referred to was the new B.C. Area Commander.

So your ASR collected a photographer, and tottered down the street to the Bay Street Armories.

There he was greeted by the local army PRO, Len Smith, and the B.C. Area PRO, Reid Moyer, and the 25 Militia Group PRO, Chuck McLeod.

"What gives?" yawned your ASR, somewhat awed in the presence of so many pros.

"The advocate-general is here," Reid Moyer said. (At least, that's what I THOUGHT he said.) "Maybe a picture?"

"Naw," I said, thinking to myself, who wants a picture of a lawyer, even an army lawyer. "But we'll take a shot of Brigadier Danby, maybe talking to one of the national survival trainees."

"But the advocate-general," said Reid (at least, that's what I THOUGHT he said), "is from Ottawa."

"Ottawa, schmottawa," I said. "So this is Danby's first time here since he actually took over area command, so let's have a picture of Danby."

"But," butted Reid, "you don't get this man from Ottawa here every day; this is his first time too."

"Oh, alright," I said. "We'll take two pictures. Danby and a trainee, and Danby with your man from Ottawa."

All three PROs looked at me a little strangely, but said that would be fine.

"I'll get the brigadier and the adjutant-general now," Chuck McLeod offered.

"The brigadier and—WHO?" I said, suddenly waking up.

"The adjutant-general. You know, he kind of runs the Canadian army, like," said Len Smith.

This is your former Armed Services reporter reporting. I think.

'Can't Starve' Says Burglar Prison-Bound

Gabor deBrody of Montreal was sentenced in city police court today to two and a half years in the B.C. penitentiary.

DeBrody, a resident of Canada for five and a half years, had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and theft arising out of a frustrated attempt to rob the Victoria Curling Club last Friday.

The theft was thwarted by an alert newsboy who heard scraping sounds coming from the club, and a policeman who caught the burglar after firing three warning shots.

"You are an enigma, a puzzling man," Magistrate W. Ostler told the migrated Hungarian.

Mr. Ostler said deBrody's probation report showed him to be a very intelligent man, but that he had a consistent record of bad company and deeds.

"You are consistently led into lawbreaking experiences," he said, "despite the fact that you have been treated leniently by authorities up to now."

NEEDED FOOD

DeBrody said he had never had a steady job since coming to Canada, and that he had to have food.

"I cannot starve," he said in broken English.

"That is still no excuse for crime," the magistrate replied.

Mr. Ostler told deBrody he must go to the penitentiary and said he hoped he could learn a trade there.

"Then perhaps, when you get out you will be able to settle down to a steady job."

JOB TALKS REQUESTED BY PROVINCE

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has asked Ottawa for a joint federal-provincial conference on unemployment.

Replying to opposition labor critic Rae Eddie (NDP-CCF New Westminster) in the Legislature Thursday, Mr. Peterson said the main aim is to obtain coverage for workers whose unemployment benefits had expired and were compelled to draw social assistance.

But another objective would be to retrain the unemployed to do required jobs, especially those people displaced by automation, the House was told.

Damage Feared To Berry Farms By Cold Snap

Fears that strawberry and loganberry plantations in Saanich and elsewhere on Vancouver Island may have been damaged by last month's cold snap, were expressed today by Alan Little, B.C. horticulturist.

He said a complete survey will be conducted at the end of March to determine the extent of injury to berry plants on the Island.

The cold winds between January 14 and 20 may have damaged the crowns of strawberry and canes of loganberries, he said.

"If this proves to be the case they will not carry a full load of fruit during the coming crop season," he said.

Cities Get One Year To Ponder Bus Offer

Metro 'Joker' Planned By Bennett?

Stage was set Thursday for transfer of B.C. Electric buses to civic operation within a year.

A high level meeting between Premier W. A. C. Bennett and civic leaders of the Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver areas was held in the premier's office Thursday.

Statements by municipal leaders after the meeting indicated that the premier told them he would not force the buses on the municipalities. He said press reports that he demanded rather than merely requested civic co-operation were erroneous.

NOMINAL $1

However, it became apparent that a tentative deadline has been set of one year for the municipalities to make up their minds on the deal they have been offered by the premier.

This is:

The buses would be sold for a nominal $1, but this would not include the terminals, shops or real property held by the transit company.

Legislation would be adopted to guarantee a subsidy to the municipalities during the term of their franchises based on the 1960-61 cash deficits.

Further legislation would guarantee an unspecified subsidy after franchises expired and continuing for an indefinite period.

NEXT SESSION

An answer will have to be made within the next year so that this legislation could be presented to the legislature at the next session.

This raised a suspicion that a deadline exists, although municipal leaders maintained the premier assured them the status quo would continue until franchises expired if they wished.

The fact that the premier himself, and alone, opened negotiations on the touchy question fed rumors that the government is determined to shed the buses soon.

A JOKER?

One observer, unconnected with the meeting, said he felt that the promised legislation probably would contain a "joker"—creating metropolitan governments in both areas—if the civic leaders rejected the premier's offer.

However, top government officials insisted that the government—which always has favored metro government for the two areas—feels that the bus issue is an appropriate and natural start toward this goal which would not require any government pushing.

The premier's offer of selling only the rolling stock and retaining the transit company's real property is believed to stem from the legal tangles surrounding the privately-held B.C. Electric debentures which amount to mortgages on the property.

Both Vancouver Mayor Tom Alsbury and Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy emphasized that the municipalities will take their time to make a thorough study of the proposals before making up their minds.

Problem: Hang It in City Hall Or 'Stuff It Under Door Mat'

By JOHN MIKA

To the ramparts, citizens! City Hall today seemed like a Paris battleground of abstract art.

Hanging in the balance is an "expressionistic" canvas by Herbert Siebner received by the city as a gift from the grateful artist minutes before he took the oath of allegiance as a citizen.

Moments after the artist, his wife and 11-year-old daughter Angela trooped out of City Hall, a drive had begun to prevent hanging of the painting in the civic building.

IF WILLING

Several aldermen suggested it should be given to the Greater Victoria Art Gallery—if it would be willing to take it.

Early, an elderly amateur painter delivered a protest letter to the mayor's secretary demanding that the painting be "stuffed under the door mat."

Cause of the controversy, the three-by-two-foot canvas is entitled "Inner Harbor" and was described by the award-winning artist as an "expression" of the "sense of movement in the Inner Harbor on a warm summer day."

Both Vancouver Mayor Tom Alsbury and Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy emphasized that the municipalities will take their time to make a thorough study of the proposals before making up their minds.

series of his impressions of various B.C. communities.

Mr. Siebner took Mrs. Eaton's criticism like a trouper and airily replied in his German accent:

"It is she that is making an insult. I am living in today but she must still be living in yesterday."

Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell, who accepted the painting for the city, at first refused to pass any comment on the work except to say the city appreciated the gift.

NOT FOR HIM

But later he admitted that abstract art "simply doesn't appeal to me" even though he is a member of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery board.

He suggested the painting should be offered to the art gallery because the traditional architecture of City Hall "simply doesn't provide any suitable setting for such a painting."

Ald. Edgelow was more positive.

"I admire the man's gesture but we definitely should not hang it in City Hall. We should give it to the art gallery—if they will take it."

"The artist may understand that kind of art but I don't. In my wildest dreams I couldn't visualize that as our Inner Harbor."

AN ABORTION

Ald. Edgelow also said he was a well-known painter and "she said it was just an abortion... that it would be a pity if it was allowed to hang in City Hall and we should stop it."

Ald. A. W. Toone, who also viewed the painting, said he felt it lacked some contrast to highlight the Legislative Buildings or Empress Hotel "but of course I may be interpreting it wrong. But then I would prefer to look at a geometric design."

ALL THAT ROT

"I think it's just disgraceful that the Canada Council should give him all that money—and that anyone would print all that rot in the paper," she said.

(No stranger to controversy, Mr. Siebner recently won a $4,000 Canada Council award to further his career and The Times has been printing a freedom. In Germany, under the Nazi regime, modern art was forbidden.

Mr. Siebner said he was "greatly amused" over recent objections from Prince George concerning his abstract impression of the city, which was published in the Victoria Daily Times.

"I have had no direct communication from them," he smiled. "It seems we have broken off diplomatic relations."

Dr. Fontaine, who has been at Victoria College since 1956, said he was happy to adopt Canada as his homeland.

PLEASANT PLACE

"This is a very pleasant place to live," he said, "and I hope to settle here."

Mrs. Hannelore Siebner who is a professional window dresser, smiled and bowed when Judge Clearhough said:

"It is my pleasure to welcome you as a new citizen of Canada."

Premier Bennett this afternoon introduced legislation to cut the amusement tax in half, and exempt a number of entertainments.

Amendments to the Hospital Construction Aid Tax Act would reduce the amusement tax from 10 to 5 per cent of the price of admission.

Exempt from the tax would be any entertainment for which admission is 75 cents or less and any sports recreation such as ice skating, golf, bowling, curling, swimming.

The premier also introduced changes in the 5 per cent sales tax legislation, exempting school text books from the tax.

However, he has imposed the tax on handling charges for all goods purchased outside the province.

Rail Strikes
Set for April

MONTREAL (CP) — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Ind. today set strike dates against Canada's two major railways. It threatened to strike the CNR April 2 and the CPR 24 hours later, April 3.

O. J. Travers, assistant chief of the union in Canada, told a press conference the union regrets having to make the announcement.

He said it was necessary because the railways appeared "determined to set the clock back" on working conditions for the engineers.

News of the proposed strike against the CNR was made public several hours earlier when the publicly-owned railway issued a statement criticizing the move.

SURPRISE ACTION

Setting a strike date against the CPR, however, came as a complete surprise. Only a few hours earlier, a railway spokesman had said the two parties were close to signing a new agreement and all that

ARMADA
AIRLINER

MANILA (AP) — An armada of U.S. ships and planes, crisscrossing 75,000 square miles of the western Pacific, today reported no trace of a chartered American airliner missing with 107 persons aboard.

The four-engine Super Constellation of the California-based Flying Tiger Line disappeared between Guam and the Philippines on a flight from California to South Vietnam.

Travis air force base in California said the plane carried a crew of 11 Americans, 93 U.S. Army personnel and three South Vietnamese. Four women were among the crew.

It was the third major air mishap this month. The loss of all aboard would be the third worst disaster in aviation history involving a single plane.

The plane took off from Guam at 8:57 p.m. Thursday night carrying fuel for about nine hours' flying for the 1,600-mile, eight-hour hop to Clark air force base, north of Manila. It was last heard from 80 miles later when the pilot sent a routine radio message to Guam from about 270 miles west of that U.S. base.

President Donald Gordon and J. J. Macmillan, executive vice-president in charge of operations, called the decision "most regrettable."

It said the CNR must immediately consider warning ships "of possible embargoes on traffic."

KEY ISSUE

The heart of the dispute between the CNR and its 2,700 engineers is the union's demand for retention of the so-called arbitrary allowances. These are payments given engineers preparing for or ending a run according to a specified formula and not by the amount of time actually involved.

The CNR wants to reduce the allowances in line with the majority recommendations of a federal conciliation board that reported on the dispute in mid-December.

The CNR started implementing the board's recommendations—including a total wage increase of 6 1/2 per cent—Jan. 1. The union rejected the majority report, saying it took more away from the engineers than it gave them.

On March 1, an American Airlines Boeing 707 jet crashed in Jamaica Bay, killing all 95 aboard. Three days later a chartered British airliner crashed near Douala in the West African republic of Cameroon and all 111 persons aboard were killed.

RADAR USELESS

Global Missile
Orbited By Russ

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev claimed today that Russia has developed an invulnerable "global missile" following an announcement that a Soviet "cosmic ship" was orbiting the earth.

Khrushchev said United States radar systems would be useless against the "global" missile since it could strike from any direction.

"So as people say, you can expect it through the door and it comes through the window," the Soviet leader said.

He claimed there was no defense against the missile which could "fly in any direction and land at any spot." The weapon made the U.S. as militarily vulnerable as any country in the world, he said.

INTERRUPTS SPEAKER

Khrushchev made the announcement of the launching of the "cosmic ship" — the same phrase used to describe the globe-girdling vehicles that carried Russia's two spacemen into orbit — while interrupting a speaker at an election meeting attended by 6,000 persons in the Kremlin palace.

He said the ship had gone up at 3 p.m. Moscow time (7 a.m. EST).

Tass news agency said it was "an artificial earth satellite launched with a view to continuing the Soviet program of outer space research."

Moscow radio said the satellite was unmanned and was orbiting the earth every 93 minutes.

U.S. Seeking A-Test Race
Russ Charge

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union accused the United States today of seeking resumption of a nuclear arms-testing race and said American negotiations in Geneva are avoiding a "serious approach" to this problem.

This charge from Soviet Ambassador Tsarapkin came as Eastern and Western groupings in the 17-nation disarmament conference began openly to woo the eight countries in the non-aligned section — Brazil, India, Mexico, the United Arab Republic, Sweden, Burma, Nigeria and Ethiopia.

The "eight middle men" as the representatives of the eight neutrals have been dubbed, began their own moves in the conference to keep the United States and the Soviet Union negotiating on the widest possible range of disarmament and nuclear testing problems.

As a first step Indian Foreign Minister V. K. Krishna Menon called on the conference to switch its emphasis from formal speech-making to intimate study sessions by U.S. State Secretary, Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko of the complex disarmament problem.

Rusk, who supported Menon's suggestion, met with the Indian

OTTAWA (CP) — William Adams, 40, of St. Catharines, sought since 1949 in connection with his father's murder, is Canada's most wanted criminal, the RCMP said today.

Adams, born in Timmins, Ont., has been on the RCMP's list of most wanted criminals since 1953. He has worked as a crane operator, machinist and salesman.

A revised list contains the names of six men.

The others, in the order they stand on the list, are:

John Frederick Meagher, 31, of Toronto, wanted by the Metropolitan Toronto police for escaping custody in 1956 while en route to court to face charges of armed robbery.

Roy Edward Holowaty, 36, and Donald Edward Kolit, 30, both wanted for escaping from the Saskatchewan penitentiary at Prince Albert Nov. 12, 1961.

The men, both serving 10-year terms for robbery with violence, may be armed and are considered dangerous.

Roger McLean, 37, wanted by Quebec police for escaping custody Dec. 10, 1961, and wounding with intent. McLean was convicted in Ottawa Nov. 22, 1960, on charges of armed robbery and sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary. McLean is considered "extremely dangerous."

He escaped in Montreal where he was to face several charges.

Two Ships Aground

ROME (AP) — Heavy seas, churned up by the winter's worst Mediterranean storm, drove an American tanker, the Sophie H. and a Greek freighter aground Thursday. One crew member was reported drowned.

No plea was taken and Charles Augusta Dilley, an unemployed father of six children, was remanded in custody.

Constable Gary Frazer, 27, who suffered abdominal leg and arm injuries in the shooting at the bank, had his left leg amputated above the knee. Hospital officials said he is "holding his own."

New Bill Changes
Compensation Plan

Legislation merging B.C. Power Commission and B.C. Electric and also boosting compensation for the B.C. Electric takeover was introduced today by Premier Bennett.

He presented the expected bill setting up a single B.C. Power and Hydro authority to the legislature as it opened its afternoon sitting.

Then he presented the unexpected changes in the takeover legislation, passed at last August's special session.

It boosts compensation to B.C. Electric common shareholders by more than $60,000,000.

It also nullifies the court action launched by the shareholders for a better deal.

The amendments to the Power Development Act make B.C. Electric and the Crown immune from any suits, debts, accounts, contracts claims or obligations pressed by former shareholders — including the compensation suit already before the courts.

The only legal action that can now be taken, according to a clause in the amendments, is under the Crown Procedure Act.

This means permission to sue by petition to the Lieutenant-Governor — which the premier said last year had been refused to B.C. Electric shareholders.

The compensation paid for the common shares is boosted from $110,985,045 to $171,833,052.

NOT IMMEDIATE

While the amount to be paid for the B.C. Electric itself is increased by this amount, the new bill withdraws the offer the government originally made to pick up other assets of B.C. Power Corporation at a figure which would give the company a total of $38 a share for all its holdings.

The B.C. Power shares are the ones held by the public. The legislation setting up the new hydro authority will not come into effect immediately.

It is delayed until proclaimed by the Lieutenant-Governor, which means at the cabinet's pleasure.

It provides the B.C. Hydro and Power authority with borrowing powers totalling $500,000,000.

CEASE-FIRE

PARIS (Reuters) — Success seemed in sight at the Algerian peace talks today but there was rising apprehension over right-wing terrorism in Algeria.

French and Moslem negotiators went into their 10th straight day of talks at Evian near the Swiss border with expectations that a cease-fire might be signed Saturday.

But in Algeria about 500 moved into Algiers and Oran as the European Secret Army Organization stepped up its terrorist campaign to scuttle the peace agreement.

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — President Miguel Ydigoras Thursday night claimed 40,000 supporters were streaming into this Guatemalan capital to join the army in crushing a revolt he charged was led by "Castro-Communist elements."

Bitter clashes broke out Thursday in the capital of Central America's most populous republic as thousands of demonstrators led by students blocked traffic, set fire to automobiles and smashed store windows. All bus and most railway service in the capital was paralyzed.

Hospital spokesman said they counted four dead and 72 injured.

Terrace hospital officials said people from all over the community had volunteered to give blood to save the constable's life. "We had more than a hundred donors. It's a wonderful little town."
